While on a hike, Senior Kathy Williams stops on a small hill to rest for a moment and enjoy the partial shade of a tree.

On a summer afternoon, a bright blue sky accented with fluffy white clouds surrounds Hogback Mountain in Lexington.

In a history spotlighted year, Stonewall Jackson's statue stands in Lexington reminding everyone of our town history.

People in our crowd in 1976

2 Opening

Nowhere on earth is there a more peaceful or beautiful place than Goshen Pass, a spot enjoyed by many LHS students.

In the Basketball tournament at Madison, Senior Charlie Miller takes a shot as Don Dock and Bro' Payne await the result.

On the Senior Picnic, Meg Barrett, Beth King and Mary Ann Taylor practice the favorite activity of the day — eating!

Cheering the J.V. Basketball team on, Vickie Entsminger offers the crowd a lot of spirit and a big smile.

During the Powderpuff game, Junior Cheerleader Shawn Oden'hall checks with the other guys to see if he's cheering right.

Many interesting outfits were seen on Red, White and Blue Day of Homecoming Week. Jeff Mohler modles one of the best.

"Yes, we must indeed all hang together or most assuredly we shall all hang separately." Benjamin Franklin stated in a few words a fundamental concept that unites people, but also allows them freedom and individualism. In essence, this idea is applicable in any size society, even one as small as Lexington High School. Students all have separate and distinct personalities, yet somehow always hang together to form an extremely unique group. If not for this sense of togetherness, there would be little to serve as the basis of LHS. The school is composed of people, all of whom are an essential part of the spirit. Everyone maintains his individual character, while enriching the existence of fellow students. All this proves that one + one = one!

Students display individuality . . .

For the 1975-76 school year, Lexington High School is indeed fortunate to host Foreign Exchange Student Marisa Campos who arrived in August from Peru.

After an assembly in the gymnasium, Mary Ellen Ripley pauses to give the Crystal photographer a smile.

What do you think of when you look back at 75-76? The Bicentennial influenced the events of the country. Everywhere one looked, the 200th birthday of our nation was being celebrated. Also this year came the National Resource shortage which forced a reduction in the budget of LHS. Because of this, the Daily Bulletin and Absentee List were combined to save money. Near the end of the year, the lights went out at LHS because of a severe deficit in school funds. '76 was also a big election year on both local and national levels.

Primaries, assassination attempts, and politics were in the center spotlight. It was the year of the Olympics in Germany and Canada; the year a place called Angola became a national issue; the year the band was late at the Homecoming Dance.

Remember??

A lot of the spirit lost to apathy last year was regained this year as shown by the "HURRICANE" sign made by Soph. girls.

Enjoying the beautiful April weather, Freshmen Tonya Natkin and Anne Badgett relax outside and discuss summer plans.

Present National Honor Society members watch the stage as the new members of the group get inducted.

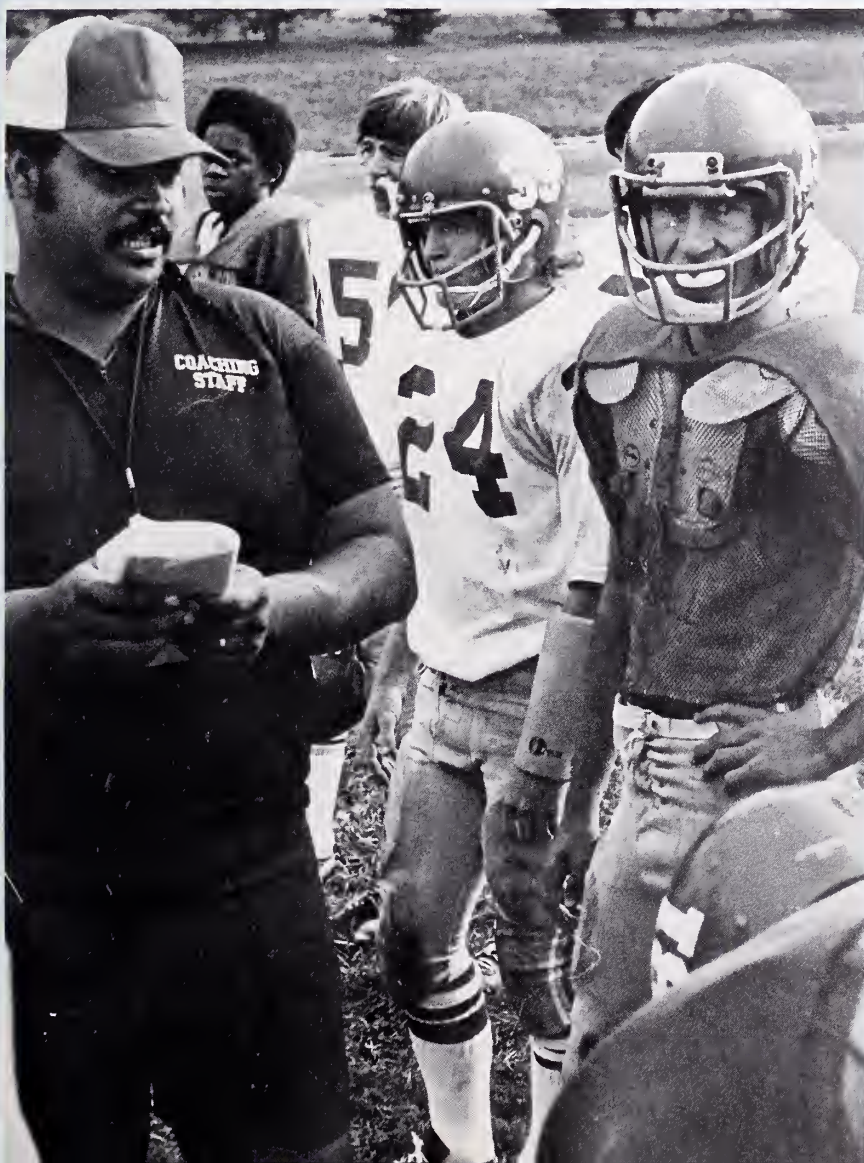

Interesting facial expressions are offered by students supporting the Basketball team at an away game.

but always unite together as one

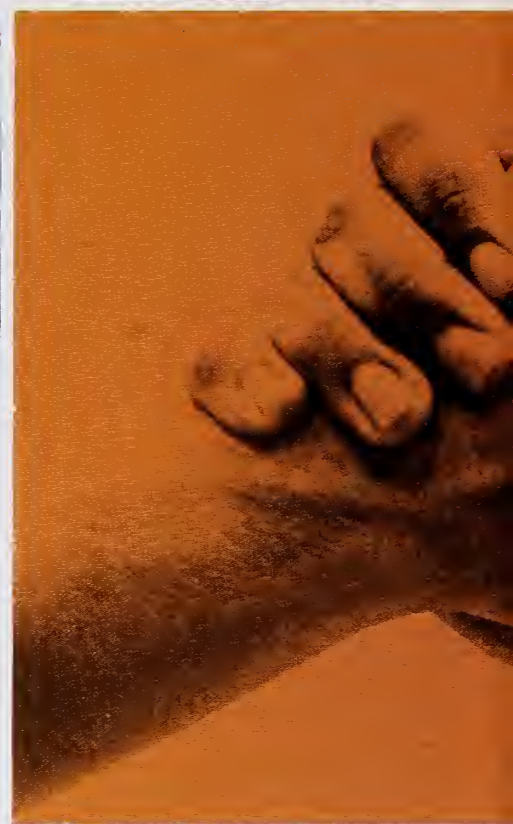

More enthusiasm than ever before is displayed by the senior girls in the halls the morning of the annual powderpuff game.

During summer practice, Coach Madison talks to Timmy Weeks, Scott Baker and other players about defensive strategy.

In Sophomore class elections, students anxiously await the results of voting to see who will be their new president.

MOMENTS

A cool drink from the water fountain is a welcomed pleasure for Senior Stuart Brewbaker after a hot football practice.

Some of the group of AFS Foreign Exchange students who visited Lexington during the summer perform their special act in a talent show they put on in the LHS gym.

Practicing drawing layouts, Senior Susan Slater works on perfecting the technique during yearbook camp at Longwood College.

Summer fun and work occupy Jun.-Aug.

The '75 summer was more than just a 3-month-long weekend. It brought sun-worshipping LHS students to the beach to immerse their bodies in the salty spray of the ocean and the beaming streaks of light from the "tan bestower." The summer months also sent others to a local pool, pond, or creek. Tending to the cattle and fields, and putting up hay were some of the tasks performed beneath the scorching sun. Long exhausting trips to other parts of the USA were taken, as well as interstate jaunts. Summer jobs seized a lot of student time. The Cheerleaders, Band, and Football team started practice before school started. Many students spent time at the softball park. All in all, the summer was saturated with plain old-fashioned fun!

Band members Scotty Knick, Larry Cummings, and Jo Ann Cunningham practice marching during an August afternoon practice.

Throughout the summer on hot days, LHS students dashed to various bodies of water to cool and refresh themselves.

Magazine Drive

Crystal staff "youngsters" ham it up while singing "The Twelve Years of School" in a Crystal drive skit.

The magazine drive initiated itself with two skits sponsored by the Crystal staff, the first involving members of the staff and the second consisting of a hand-picked group of teachers. The annual drive, usually lasting one week, was extended an additional week because of the low number of sales. Also, during this period, Crystals arrived and the annual Crystal signing party was held. What a relief for Crystal staffers as well as students! For the next week the year old Crystals dominated the scene, bringing back to all, memories of good times past. Altogether, the Magazine Drive was a success. It provided enough money to keep "the Crystal" at $5.00.

"Take that!" sings Monty Potter after shooting a water pistol into the crowd while playing the bully.

Hapless "Lil Nell" (Ms. Ramsey) is stolen by "Dirty Dan" (Mr. Bond), as "Dog" (Mr. Straub) looks on.

Skits Best Ever

A pensive Martha Huntley writes receipts for magazines and wonders if the drive is really worth it

Surrounded by avid fans with blank Crystals, Jerry Kahn, pen in hand, tackles his first yearbook.

Mark Saunders joins Chip Phillips, Fred Rindge and friends at the Crystal signing party.

Among many watching the movie in the gym after the parade are David Thompson, Mary Ann Hostetter and Debby Rhodenizer.

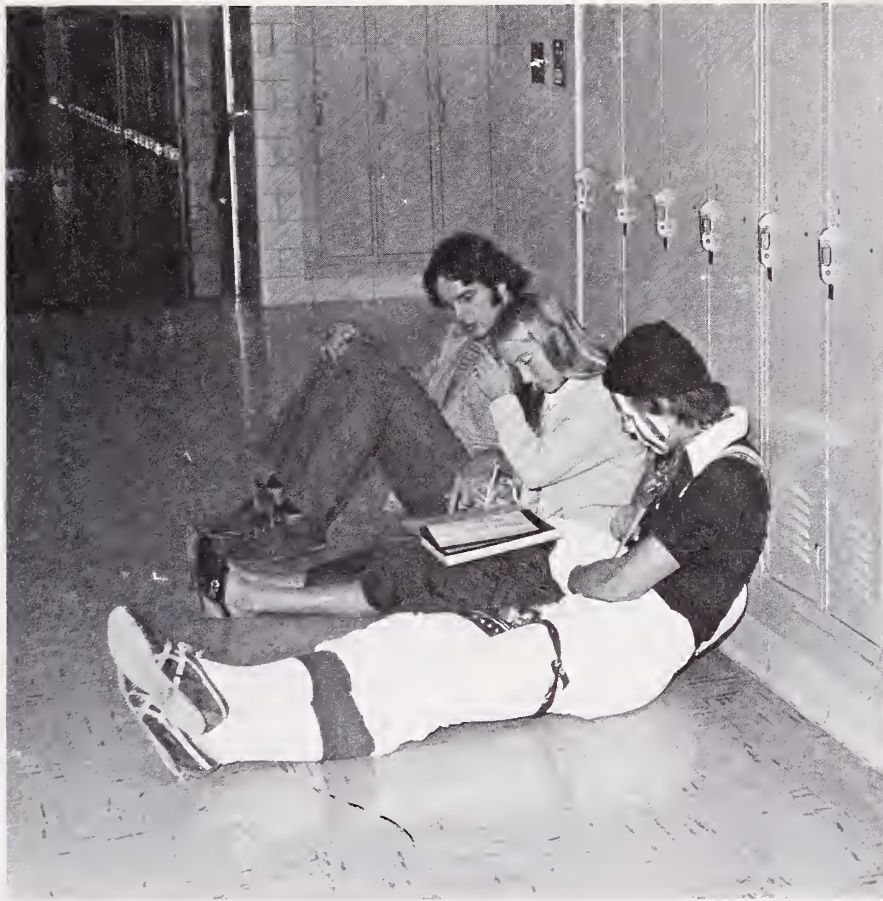

On 50's day, Scotty Knick, Patricia Sensabaugh, Terri Purvis and Bobby Kirkpatrick laugh it up in the Library.

Dressed up in styles of the 50's, John Hodges and Jo Ann Cunningham enjoy their lunch and smile for the camera.

Homecoming Week very eventful

During Homecoming week there was no shortage of ways to get with the spirit: decorations, pep rallies, and different crazy clothes every day. Monday was clash day. The wildest combinations of apparel could be seen promenading in the halls—such as checks on stripes on plaids! On Tuesday, 50's day, there was so much hair grease and cherry red lipstick that anything of the 70's was an anachronism. Sports day brought out everything from baseball uniforms to rods and reels. Thursday was the Bicentennial day, with the parade, pep rally, and movies that night. In addition to Red and White day, Friday was Head day. There were bizarre hats and painted faces—even a "Jaws" mask. Friday night school spirit reached its peak with an easy win over Lord Botetourt.

Sitting in the hall with Shan Mitchell and Lee Foster is Jerry Kahn who went all out on Red, White and Blue Day.

The Scarlet Hurricane Marching Band helped to lead the 1975 Homecoming parade down Jefferson Street.

Homecoming '75:

The Homecoming Dance provides Phyllis Peters and Marty Chambers with a great place to jam to some good music.

presentation of the Home-Maid-of-Honor Robin Deacon and date Larry Weeks go get

With the theme "Tropical Paradise," the Senior Class presented the Homecoming Dance. A small bridge led students and alumni through a pine tree setting that enhanced the doorway out onto the dance floor which was highlighted with 3 streamer columns. Posters of tropical lands lined the walls. Everything was perfect — except that the band, Devil's Workshop, failed to show up due to an "accident". A stereo was quickly found and set up to provide the music. Even though the absence of a band caused problems, on the whole the dance was pretty good. Kim Carter was presented as the 1975 Homecoming Queen and Robin Deacon was Maid of Honor.

Homecoming-Queen Kim Carter poses for the camera during the busy week that preceded the dance.

Beautiful but bandless

While sitting with Cindy Weeks and Brian Brewbaker, Dick Emrey waves to the camera as Tish Leech looks on.

Under the canopy ceiling, Seniors Steve Wilson and Audrey Goldsten admire the decorations as they dance.

Preferring to dance on stage, Butch Hostetter and his sister Gail Swink enjoy the music.

Fall activities include a Legs contest

German I students Diane Hickman, Clare Becht and Kim McCall gather at the home of Ms. Dickens with other Deutsch scholars.

In Sophomore class elections, Warren Turpin checks in with Senior Palmer Deacon to get his ballot for voting.

The SCA district meeting is a hectic time for LHS President Tim Poindexter as he consults Mr. Madison about a problem.

After winning the AFS sponsored contest, Senior Jerry Kahn models his award winning legs for all the world to see.

The Scarlet Hurricane Marching Band is led onto the field by Majorette Lisa Mays and Drum Major Monty Potter.

Thanks to the efforts of the SCA, students can play Volleyball or just sit and talk in the gym during both lunch periods.

As usual, the fall months of school were busy. This year however, some new activities enlivened LHS. Most unique of these events was the AFS Legs Contest. Jerry Kahn ended up with the most penny votes to win the all male competition. '75 was also the year that the SCA hosted the District SCA meeting. Various SCA's came to LHS for the annual assemblage of student leaders. The whole affair went exceptionally well. Because of the persistence of a few SCA members, the gym was opened to students during both lunches. For the third year in a row, Sophomore girls earned money for their class by ushering at VMI football games. The vote of the people is the basis of Democracy and LHS is a true believer! Elections were held for officers and representatives for many organizations.

A quick charge up the middle by Frannie Payne (33), gives Juniors a first and ten.

Using blocking techniques learned in practice, Junior players prepare for a Senior onslaught.

Flag Football raises score

"Ex-Lax, Let's go!" cry Senior fans John Blasser, Jeff Goodbar, Jerry Cummings, and Todd Wohler.

Senior "puffers" instruct, Debbie Messick (60), gab, Martha Huntley (75), and look lost, Elaine Gansz.

With a week's experience under their belts and flags on their sides, the Juniors and Seniors ran on the field for the annual Powderpuff game. Teams were coached by football players and PE teachers, with referees consisting of LHS male faculty members and students from a Washington and Lee officiating class. All cheerleaders, as usual, were fellows from their respective classes. The half-time show was highlighted by a show from the Seniors. A split chin, suffered by Karen Blackwell, was the only casualty in the game which ended in a 12-12 tie, the highest score in the last six years. In the end, however, the Seniors retired their colors, undefeated in two seasons.

The starting line up for the Seniors looks rough as a play is about to get under way.

The cast of "The Miser" pose after the final performance. The play was well-received each night it was performed.

Reciting a list of conditions, Senior Bobby Kirkpatrick elaborates as Freshman David Wilson ponders the situation.

Arguing his case for Senior Grace Ju, David Wilson receives the job from reluctant Senior David Sorrells.

Lexington Drama Club presents

Not often does one see a play where a character asks the audience why they are staring at him, but in Moliere's comedy, Harpagon does exactly that. He is just one of the people in the cast of the "The Miser," a 3-act play performed by the LHS Drama Club in January. Using high-quality costumes and effective make-up, the actors and actresses gave good individual style and development to their characters. The set was beautifully enhanced by the newly acquired black curtains. Director Susan Doak and student director Audrey Goldsten tastefully controlled the great amount of action and large cast, which resulted in a very pleasant way to spend a cold winter evening.

Grimacing in pain, Freshman Jenny Taylor collects herself after being beaten by Valiere, a forceful overseer.

In a tender moment during the play, Seniors Grace Ju and Kent Nay seem upset and very intolerable of Harpagon's rages.

Bowing to his beautiful daughter, Senior David Sorrells attempts to entice Grace Ju to marry that night.

Winter dances highlight

Let's hear it for profit and good ol' fashioned fun! What with a Junior sponsored Christmas dance and a Sophomore created Valentine's dance, the winter months were kept alive. At Christmas, Santa's Workshop perfected the atmosphere in which the Dynatones played while the Junior class reaped about $125 for their work. Sophomores, getting it all together, came up with a giant King and Queen of Hearts that towered over the gym, evoking awe from dancers enjoying the band Destiny. All in all, tenth graders made over $150 profit on what was considered the best behaved dance of the year!! The only thing left for Juniors was the Prom, and for the Sophomores — well, wait 'til next year.

"Cupid told you what!?" — Junior Lucy Tilson seems surprised by J. H. Kostelni at the Valentine's dance.

At the dance, underclassmen Norman Bowles, Shannon Echols, Robbie McHenry and Lisa Nay enjoy quiet conversation.

In Santa's Workshop, Seniors Jerry Cummings and Carol Ferris enjoy the great music and beautiful decorations.

LHS festivities in '76

With left foot forward, Senior Trudy Reeves steps to the beat of the band the Dynatones.

More comfortable with his coat and tie off, guest Henry Rhodenizer relaxes and dances with his date, Karen Smith.

Trying to learn a new dance step, Senior Richard Bird catches on quickly, as Dee Smith and Amy Conner seem to have it already mastered.

Kenny's catches on fire during winter

The Lexington Fire Department attempts to control the remaining fire in the back of Kenny's after the blaze had already destroyed most of the building.

1976 will not only be remembered as the Bicentennial Year, but also as the year Kenny's caught on fire. As students sat in the cafeteria, a dense cloud of white smoke from the fire began to parade past the windows, and as soon as the news was reported, CHANTS OF "Charl-broiled Burgers" could be heard echoing through the LHS halls.

To wind up 1975, the Band and Choir offered the student body a Christmas concert complete with carols and Santa Claus. Besides the usual sports activity, a girls Gymnastics club was organized by Ms. Martha O'Connor, but due to inadequate school funds, the team was not granted a charter by the Joint School Board. Through the winter, only one snow!

Members of the Choir, Jeff Mohler, Timmy Weeks, and Karla Vest sing to Juniors and Seniors in an assembly in late winter.

The girls on the newly formed gymnastics team (thanks to Ms. O'Connor) practice after school.

After a few years absence, Mr. Thompson's cards are found on the bulletin board wishing every student a Happy Holiday.

Adding a pleasant change, the Girl's Ensemble sing the National Anthem at all the home Basketball games.

The concert band is professionally conducted by student leader John Hodges during the annual Christmas concert.

Bringing his holiday spirit, Santa Claus makes an appearance in the LHS gym to wish everyone assembled a Merry Christmas.

Enrichment students added

Sixteen selected Senior students compose the Honors program at LHS which includes six fields of study otherwise unavailable in the school curriculum. The program demands an intense amount of concentration and study, but is culturally, as well as academically, rewarding. As a part of Honors, sacrifices were made to insure the success of the program. All learned to budget their time each day for regular classes, social lives and of course for preparation and attendance at scheduled Honors meetings, but in the end, the entire experience is gratifying and most valuable.

The New York Times seems to have caught the eyes of David Kahn and David Pruett in the Marshall Library.

After the 3 1/2 hour bus journey, hungry Seniors attack the food at a cafeteria to satisfy their healthy appetites.

Why on earth it had to rain on March 31st, no Senior will ever know. But despite the buckets of raindrops that fell all day long, the class had an enjoyable time on the annual Senior jaunt to Washington, D.C. Anything but bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, Seniors and chaperones left on 3 buses at 5:30 A.M. Arriving in D.C. they found a typical big city plague — the traffic jam. This spoiled the schedule because FOOD was first and foremost on everyone's mind, so eating at the Holloway House replaced the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. After breakfast, Seniors viewed the original copies of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence. Then came Congress. Here the class viewed the House and Senate in session, and met with Caldwell Butler. The highlight of the whole trip followed. Never before had Seniors had the chance to see the Supreme Court in session. Those who did get to go inside the Court heard the case of Capital Punishment argued. After eating their picnic lunches on the buses, the class was off to the Smithsonian for a few hours, then a quick stop at the Jefferson Memorial. In Fairfax, Seniors were let loose on Tyson's Corners to eat or shop. At 12:30 that night, worn out and wet students and chaperones rolled into Lexington.

Waiting for admittance to the Supreme Court, John Patton jokes with Paul Becht and makes the most of the delay.

"Rain, Rain, go away . . .

Early spring sends

Signing up on lists like this was a preliminary act of Juniors and Seniors in preparation for the big May 1st event.

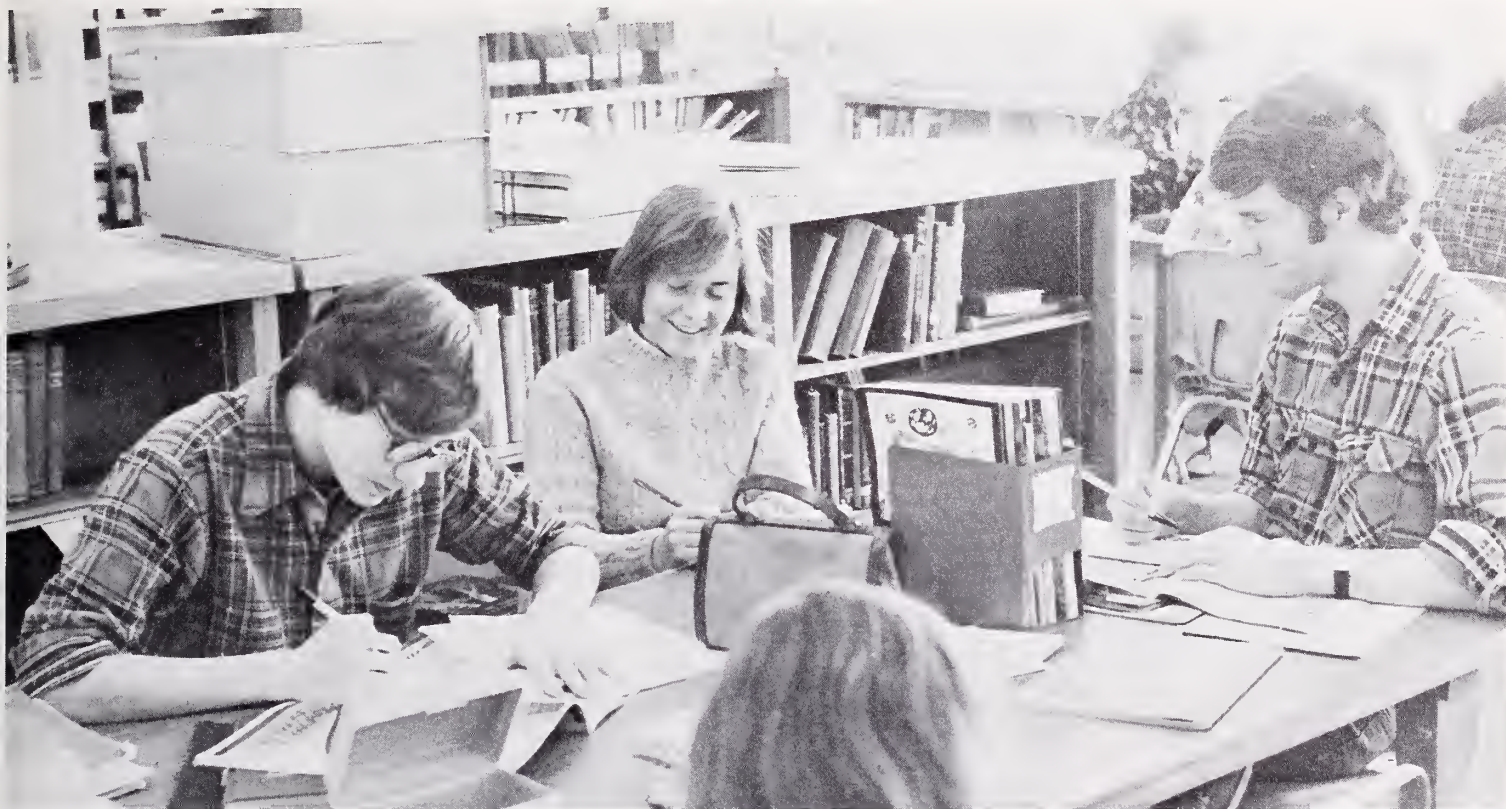

Already a member of the Junior Honor Society, Greg Davis greets and pins new members at the Induction ceremonies.

With the coming of spring came unseasonably high temperatures which Freddie Daughtry takes full advantage of.

active students outdoors

Spring fever hit most LHS students early in the year because of the extremely warm weather. In late February and March, temperatures were quite high and skies were clear, so most took to the outdoors to enjoy the weather. Seniors had completed their government research projects in the first week of April, and were busy preparing for the trip, the picnic, and graduation; receiving notification of acceptances to college, and planning their futures and careers.

On March 15, about 175 students were inducted into the two Honor Societies. There were more assemblies for upperclassmen during the entire year, one of which was "Judgment Morning", a play well-received by the Juniors and Seniors who attended.

With note cards and magazines at hand, Seniors Richard Bird, Mary Adams, and Grant Carpenter work on their projects.

In the play "Judgment Morning", Audrey Goldsten and Monty Potter show why the play received high honors at festival.

Athletic, academic and extra

YoYo's made a big comeback near the end of the year. Senior Chris Mason demonstrates his expertise at the sport.

Sports activities were the center of attention in the spring. The new tennis "team" LET scrimmaged area high school teams and showed great potential as they won many of the matches. Also, baseball, golf and track experienced very exciting seasons. After a year's absence, LHS was again represented on Classroom Kwiz. The team of Richard Bird, Lee Nichols, and Phyllis Watt defeated Alleghany Co. in their TV debut, but were defeated the second time in a very close game. In April, the Freshman class sponsored a Jean's Dance that provided the class with a lot of revenue. Some of the language classes had dinners during the exciting spring months.

Representing Lexington High School on Classroom Kwiz are Seniors Richard Bird, Lee Nichols, and Phyllis Watt.

At the Freshman sponsored Jean's Dance, George Ray and Donna Smith enjoy a good joke while dancing to the music.

Sophomores Sharon Pearson and Diane Hickman get away from class noise by studying for a German test in the hall.

LHS Band exchanges with band from Spring Valley, New York

On April 7, the LHS band departed from Lexington on their third annual band exchange trip, this year to Spring Valley High School, New York. The Spring Valley band had come to Lexington in March so the two bands, already very close, rejoined friends after arriving at Spring Valley. The next morning everyone went to school with Spring Valley members and attended various classes while Thursday afternoon, the bands practiced for their combined concert that night. Band members departed for a day in New York City on Saturday where they visited, among others, Rockefeller Plaza. A memorable site was a certain Mac the Pretzel Man. Leaving Sunday morning for home, band members had many tear filled eyes at the thought of leaving such great friends — a most unforgettable trip.

Mr. Sayblack welcomes the Spring Valley band director Mr. Saunders as he introduces him to the LHS audience.

Hail, hail the Gang's all here! Members of the two bands pose together outside the school before going on an outing.

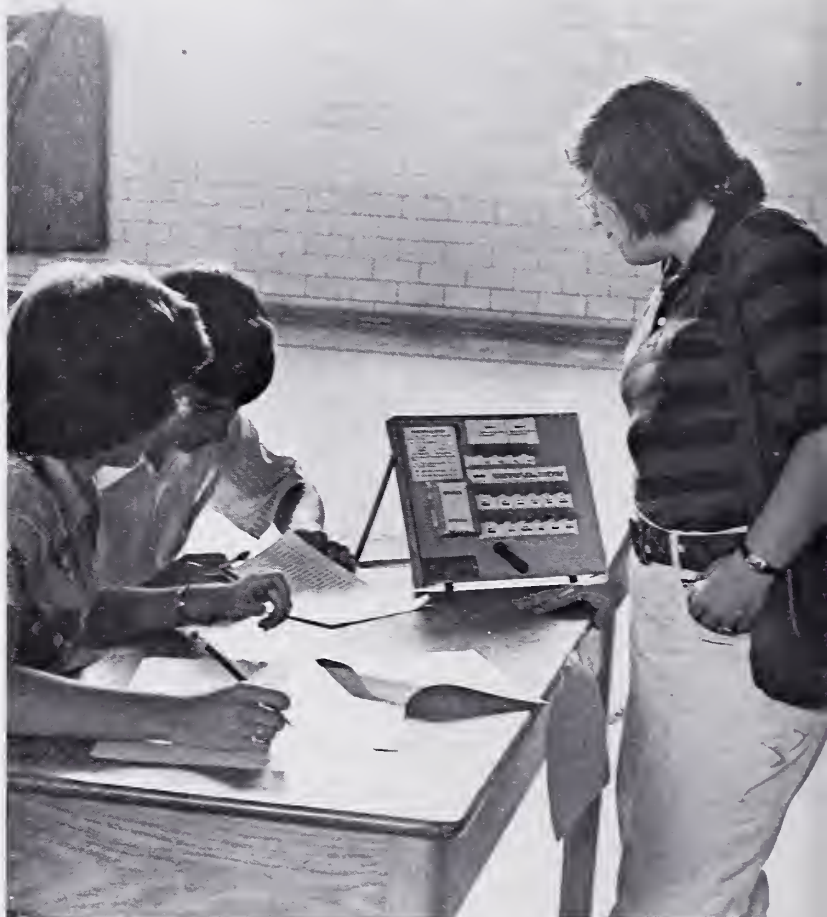

It seems that Ms. Ramsey gets quite a kick out of watching the voting booths along with Martha Huntley.

Eighth grader Tim Bryson steps out of the voting booth confident that he voted for the most able candidates.

A great help in "registering" voters, Robin Deacon and Will Harris explain voting booth procedures.

Turnout for SCA elections encouraging

Gathering in the gym for the annual SCA elections assembly, students were greeted with a stage full of contenders for various SCA offices. Along with their campaign managers, these participants in the elections gave speeches, threats and promises all with the ultimate hope of getting elected. For most, their efforts did not go unheeded. All the races were close and "voter turnout" was high. After the thrilling experience of working a voting machine it was even hard to coax students back to classes. There is no doubt that this year's elections were quite a success — and surely the winners will agree!

New SCA officers: Reggie Dixon, Linda Morrison, Jennifer Kozak, Lisa Householder and Steve Grist.

Waiting in line is the only dull part of SCA elections, yet these students seem not to mind.

Out of the way on the stage, some Juniors paint a mural depicting what a L.H.S. "Heaven" is really like.

While other Juniors work on decorations, a small group works on making "Heavenly Ledgers" to be given as favors.

With the assistance of Don Dock, Jeffery Crowder uses the Cherrypicker to tie the parachute up so everyone can get started.

Prom decorating didn't just happen the day of the Prom. Many weeks of preparation by diligent Juniors preceded the May 1st affair. Under the direction of class sponsor Ms. Nanalou Sauder and class president Kenny Hostetter, the Class of '77 literally made the gym look like heaven on earth. With the theme "Stairway To Heaven", the Juniors made a white tissue-paper stairway for the centerpiece. Then using blue and white tissue paper, they made a mural for the bleachers that read '76. Other murals were created that depicted heaven in colors of blue and white. Prom favors were hand-written ledgers tied with blue ribbon that offered the Class of '76 the best wishes of the Class of '77. With gold gates as the entrance way, the 1975-76 Prom could begin.

Juniors build a Stairway To Heaven

Fixing the candles so that the wine bottles is a slow but job for these fine girls.

Discussing the mural before painting it are Juniors Nancy Moore, Kim McCall, Cindy Eggleston, and Shawn Odenhall.

Writing and tying ribbons on the favors is the job of Juniors Susan Mahood, Louisa Clayton, and Alma Gay Nicholas.

Crimson provides music for heavenly

Just a few short steps up the Juniors' "Stairway to Heaven" led to a cloudy paradise. Here amidst mountains of tissue paper clouds, couples moved to the music while enjoying the atmosphere erected by hardworking and dedicated Juniors. On the bleachers, a blue and white '76 was spelled out in tissue paper. The stairway in the center of the gym dominated the dance floor. Formal portraits of couples were taken in the cafeteria while refreshments were served in the hallway. Favors which were hand-written "Heavenly Ledgers" provided Senior girls with a permanent keepsake of the evening. To the relief of everyone, the band Crimson appeared at school on time and furnished excellent entertainment all night. To the background music of Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven", Seniors and their dates were individually introduced to the assemblage by Junior Class President Kenny Hostetter. After stepping through the arch, each couple proceeded onto the dance floor for the Senior dance. It was a big night for the members of the Class of '76, yet the good time will be fondly remembered by all.

The Stairway to Heaven enhances the dance floor as Juniors, Seniors, and dates dance to the music of Crimson.

Freshman Larry Cummings and Senior Kim Carter sit one out while watching others enjoy the 1976 Prom.

May 1st Prom

The archway provides Senior Melissa Davis and her date a perfect place to pose for a picture as a remembrance of the Prom.

The crowded dance floor poses no problem for Senior Jerry Cummings as he finds lots of room inside a paper column.

After the Senior Promenade, Senior Lisa McCown and her date Freddie Allner rest after a long night of dancing.

LHS students participate in

After many months of planning, the Washington and Lee Mock Convention was held the weekend of May 8-9. W&L students who worked a great deal on the activity came to government classes at LHS months before May to discuss the proceedings and to recruit the services of interested Seniors. Some volunteered their services as typists or odd job doers, while many others became delegates to the state delegations.

The opening festivity of the Mock Convention, the Parade, was held on Friday morning. There was no school that day, so LHS students along with the citizens of Lexington lined the streets to watch the floats and bands. The Scarlet Hurricane Marching Band was a feature in the parade. Also, those students who were delegates were found riding and waving on the float of their respective state. The Mock Convention nominated Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Delegates in the New York delegation Kent Nay, Haig Kondayan, and Richard Bird realize that their state will probably be the one to give Jimmy Carter enough votes to win the Democratic nomination.

A spectator at the Convention, Freshman Laura Parsons listens intently as each state is called on the first ballot vote.

On Saturday afternoon during a break, Margaret Snyder relaxes in the hall with some of her fellow delegates.

As each of the 50 states is called, delegate Katherine Colvin records the number of votes cast for each candidate.

Seniors enjoy last informal gathering

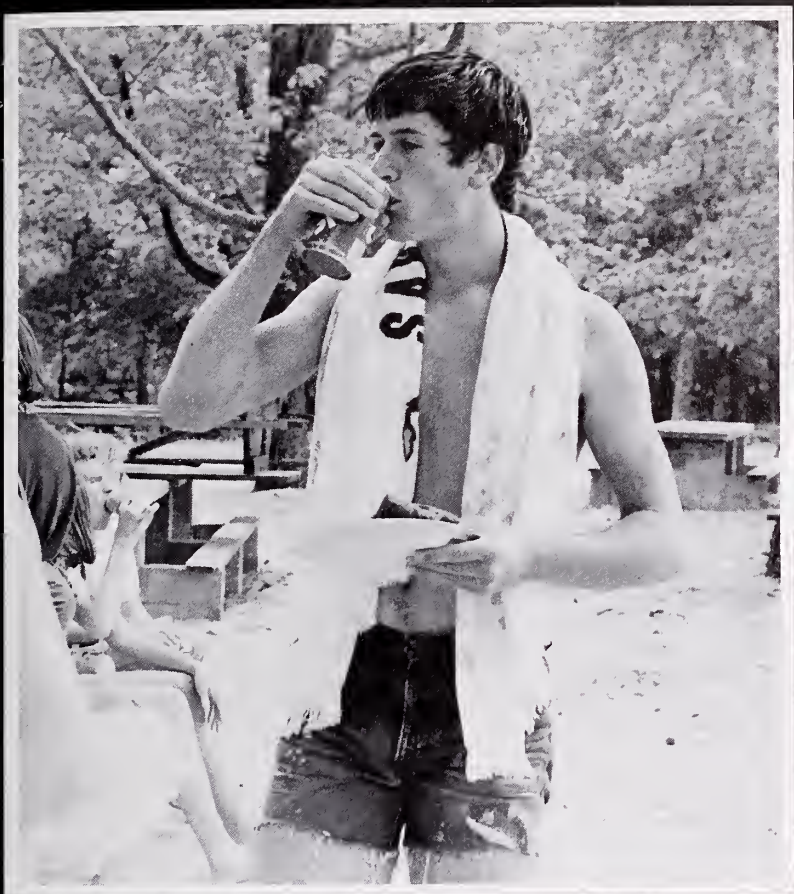

Full of food and tired of swimming, Guy Henderson must be persuaded by Nesa Henderson to join the crowd.

"Don't bother me with cameras now," says Grace Ju the harried look on Grace Ju's face, "I'm headed for the food!"

Apparently disgusted with the situation, Richard Bird wrings out his wet Nerf ball and resumes his football game.

There's nothing like a drink after a swim, and Senior Eddie Tabbot discovers just that.

"Feeding time at the zoo," came the voice of Mr. Mohler over the Shenandoah Acres intercom as a frenzied group of rain-dampened Seniors charged toward the picnic area. In all likelihood, it wasn't the food they were really thinking of, but the chance to gang up as a class for the annual dunking of Senior sponsors. Not a teacher remained dry, although the Senior class must admit that Mr. Clark took the plunge himself to an unhappy chorus of "boos" and "hisses" from picnicking onlookers. Everyone seemed to enjoy the day despite the occasional drizzle and loud were the lamentations when the time rolled around to depart. The class may be accused of having bad luck, but no one can ever truthfully say that the Class of '76 doesn't know how to have a good time!

Could this mad rush towards the lunch table tell everyone a bit about the Senior Class?

Award winners, Monty Potter, Jerry Cummings, and John Blasser pose beside the band seal given by Senior band members.

On Tuesday, May 25, nearly 300 band members, parents and friends came to LHS for the fourth annual Scarlet Hurricane Band Banquet. There was more than enough food although the LHS cafeteria was quite full. Following the dinner, graduating band members presented Mr. Sayblack with an engraved silver bowl and the band with a plaque bearing the official band seal. New officers were acknowledged and band letters or awards were given to all members of the reserve, concert bands and color-guard, with Seniors also receiving gold pins. Many were honored for their achievements especially Jerry Cummings, who was chosen for the 1976 Virginia All-State band — a second in LHS history. The banquet ended on a high note with movies taken during the band trip to New York.

The three stooges? Nope, just John Blasser, Lisa Boley, and Jerry Cummings showing trophies won at the banquet.

As the last few weeks of school rolled around, students could think back on the year and find they had many new memories. New friends, experiences, and ideas became a part of their lives. But suddenly the year ended, the members of the Class of 1976 decided to move on while the underclassmen remained. Where did the time go? As the final days crept up on us and exams stared us in the face, we all thought of how wonderful it would be to be out of school for the summer. But getting out of school also means leaving friends, so each of us hang onto our memories.

Social gatherings on the smoking porch are a common occurrence during lunches, especially when the weather is nice.

Awards

FOOTBALL-PLAYER-OF-THE-YEAR: Tim Poindexter
 MARK DAVIS SPORTSMANSHIP AWARD: Todd Wohler and William Payne
 JEFFERY NOWLIN MEMORIAL AWARD: Steve Entsminger
 MOST VALUABLE WRESTLER: Todd Wohler
 MOST VALUABLE GIRLS' BASKETBALL PLAYER: Karen Blackwell
 MOST VALUABLE BASEBALL PLAYER: Chris Mason

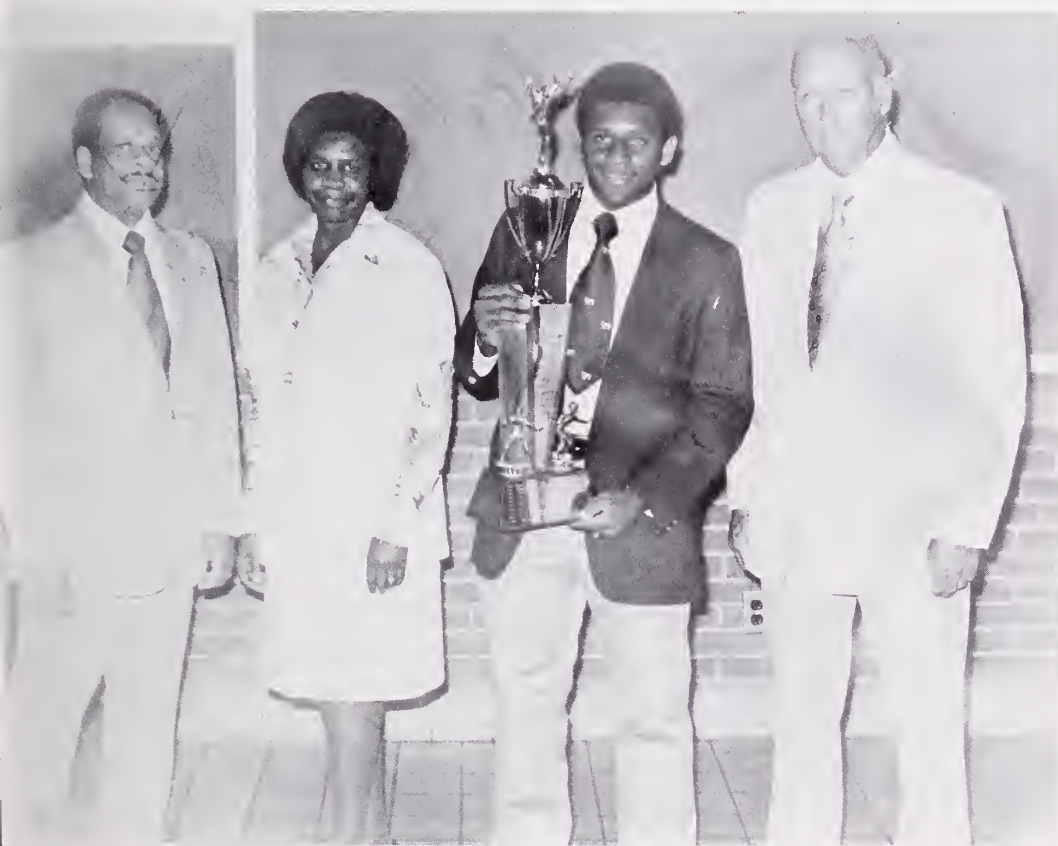

The Mark Davis Award is appropriately presented by Mark's brother Steve to Seniors Todd Wohler and William Payne.

Waiting to be served dinner, Jim Brown and Larry Scott sit patiently, but are excited about the festivities.

Standing with his parents and Coach Brewbaker, Senior Tim Poindexter proudly holds his Football-Player-of-the-Year Trophy.

With special guest speaker Steve Davis present, the 1976 Lexington High School Athletic Banquet got under way. A dinner of fried chicken and ham began the annual awards ceremony honoring those athletes whose achievements deserved recognition. As M.C., Coach Brewbaker called on every athletic team at the school to issue awards, remembering in his talk even the semi-formal Gymnastics and tennis "teams." Coaches who will be leaving next year, Ms. O'Connor and Mr. Anderson, were recognized by their respective teams and given small gifts. After a brief speech by former LHS star Steve Davis and his presentation of the Mark Davis Award (given for good sportsmanship), the group broke up as pictures of the deserving athletes were snapped and the sports season ended for the 1975-76 school year.

With faculty meetings the butt of this year's Senior spoof, subjects are Potter, Doane, Lauck, Hays, Gumenik, and Dickens.

Senior Teresa Mays, 1976 winner of the American Legion Auxiliary 291 Award, receives gracious congratulations as her presentation is made.

A wrong note? Nope, just Seniors Terri Purvis and Steve Wilson putting some facial expressions into their duet.

Listening intently(?), Ms. Ramsey gazes, Mr. Bond chews tobacco and Mr. Clark ponders life behind Potter, Doane, Hays.

Senior Night highlighted by skit

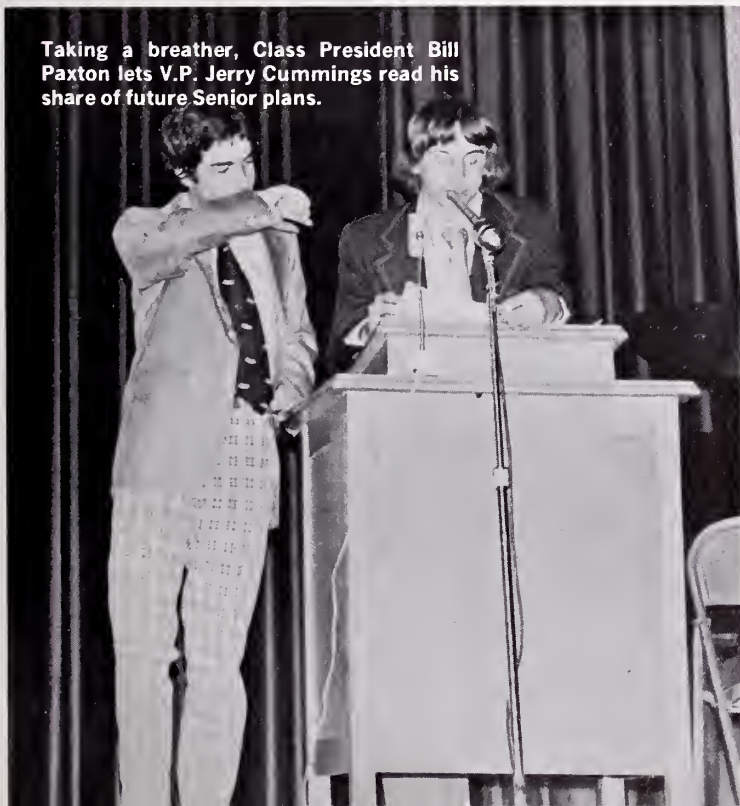

Senior Night, the last social gathering of the "Spirit of '76" brought together friends and relatives to honor deserving Seniors. This year a new award was initiated by the Seniors. Called simply the Class Award, it was presented to Charles Mason for exhibiting unique courage in five years at LHS. Masters of Ceremony for the evening were Bill Paxton and Jerry Cummings. Seniors were at first surprised by a slide show of their baby pictures which had been surreptitiously obtained from parents by the Senior Night Committee. After the skit "School Evaluation", a satire of a faculty meeting, some of the faculty members were recognized with humorous awards. Next, the Senior class sponsors were all presented gifts by members of the class. After a duet by Steve Wilson and Terri Purvis, Phillip Fix and Bruce Wallace provided the background music for the slides of the trip and picnic. Refreshments were then served in the cafeteria.

Simply smelling the flowers, Bob Carrere (Richard Wilson) attends a faculty meeting with Ms. Ramsey (Audrey Goldsten).

Found in the crowd attending Senior Night are Seniors, relatives, friends and certain interested faculty members.

Taking a breather, Class President Bill Paxton lets V.P. Jerry Cummings read his share of future Senior plans.

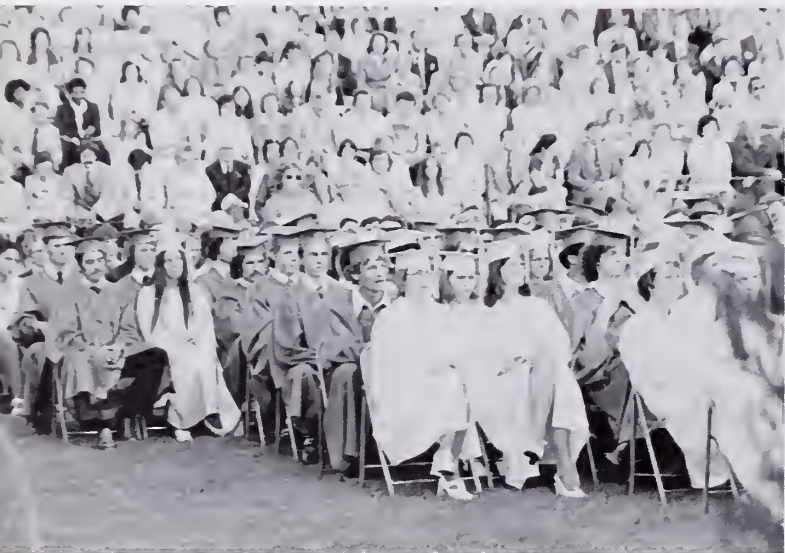

Fulfilling his wish to shake hands with this remarkable man, Mr. Thompson honors Senior class inspiration Charles Mason.

Graduation climaxes 5 years at LHS

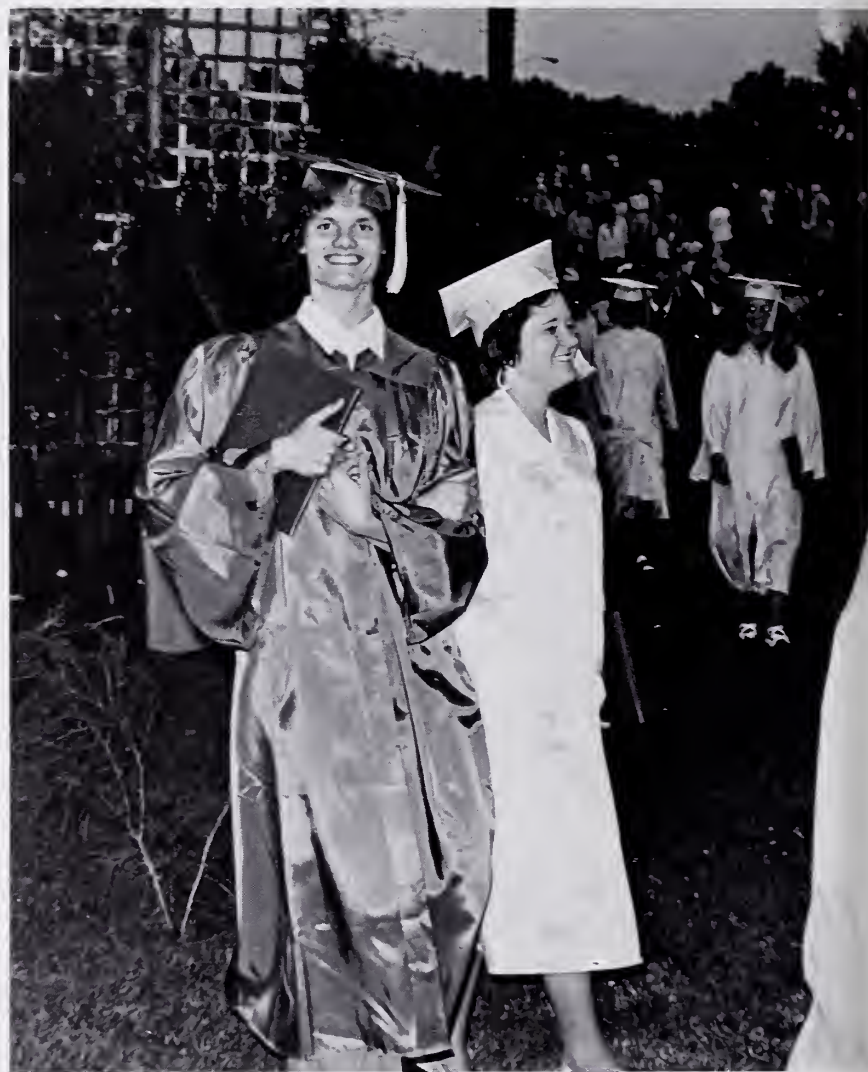

Senior class President Bill Paxton speaks about "Who We Are" as he gives the first speech at the 1976 Commencement exercises.

Before they receive their diplomas, members of the graduating class sit solemnly as Father Behen speaks to them.

Obviously proud of his new diploma, David Sorrells smiles as he and his fellow graduates march together for the last time.

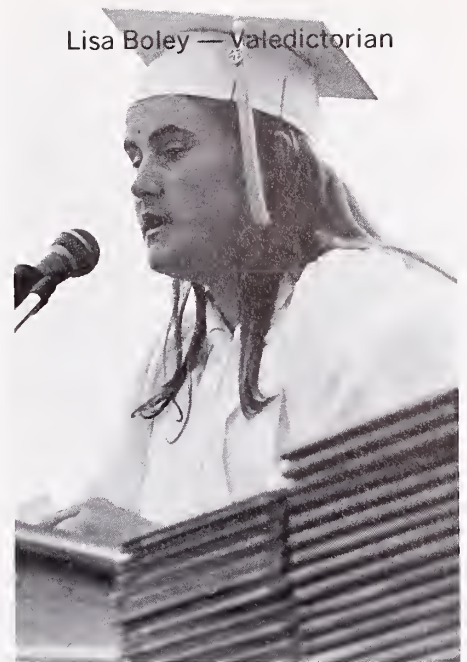

Kathy Knapp — Valedictorian

Phyllis Watt — Salutatorian

Lisa Boley — Valedictorian

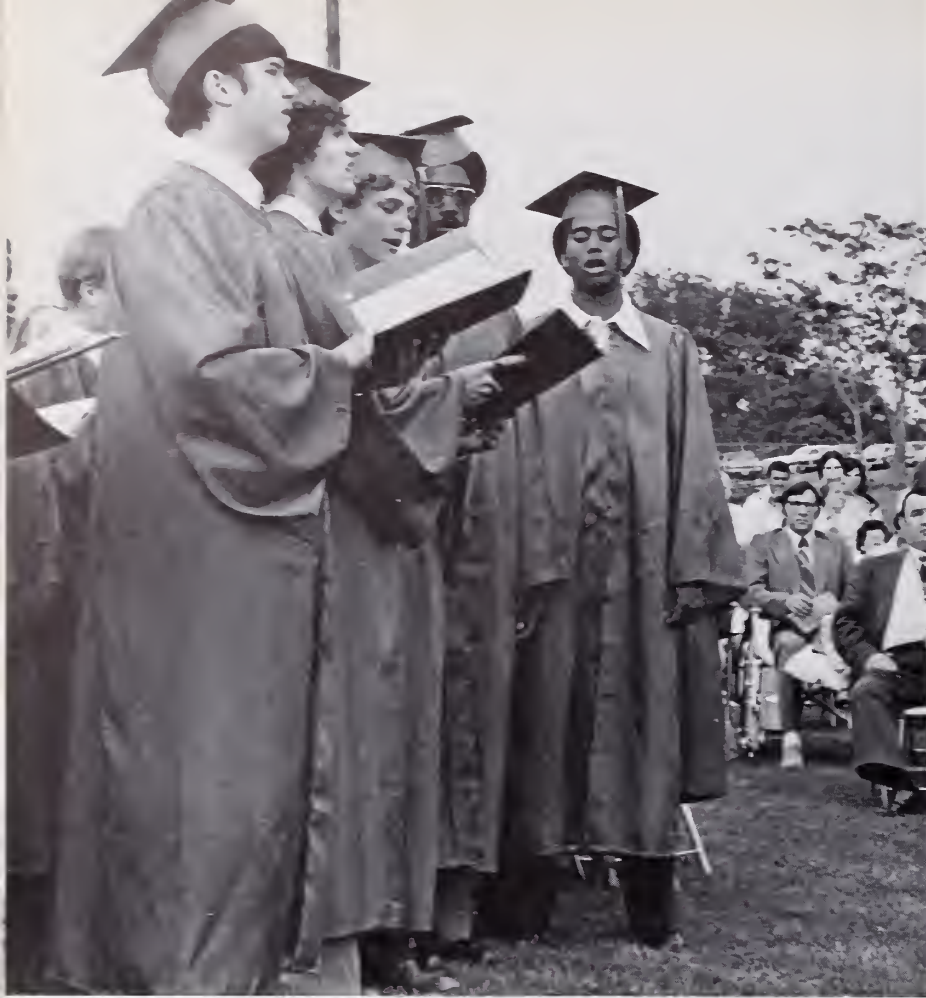

One of three Valedictorians, Alexander Tucker receives her diploma along with congratulations from Mr. Thompson.

After Mr. Madison calls his name, Charlie Miller exits from the platform obviously pleased to finally receive his diploma.

Five long but memorable years of learning and living together ended on June 6, 1976. Marching to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance," the Class of '76, 185 strong, paraded onto the Recreation Field to take their seats and begin Commencement exercises. Offering his "Graduation Thoughts," Father Behen was the first speaker. He was quite well received for he did not give the traditional speech. He spoke to the graduates about the importance of high school friends and memories, and the necessary part that the past twelve years will play in our futures.

Following that, Class President Bill Paxton spoke about "Who We Are." When Class Salutatorian Phyllis Watt stepped up to give her speech on "Where We Are Going," her cap fell off, but she proceeded with poise and dignity. Then the three class Valedictorians spoke. Lisa Boley talked about "Why We Care," Kathy Knapp on "When We Leave," and Alexander Tucker asked the question "What Now?" Then the graduates 39.7% of them in the National Honor Society, one by one were awarded their diplomas by Mr. Thompson.

Along with other Chorus members, Seniors Bob Kirkpatrick, David Sorrells, Timmy Weeks, Guy Henderson, and John Johnson sing their final song as LHS students.

As Father Beher speaks, Susan Slater listens to his graduation thoughts while recalling some of her high school memories.

Anxious and nervous members of the Class of 1976 listen as the Chorus sings "the Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Mixed emotions

fill the 185 graduating Seniors

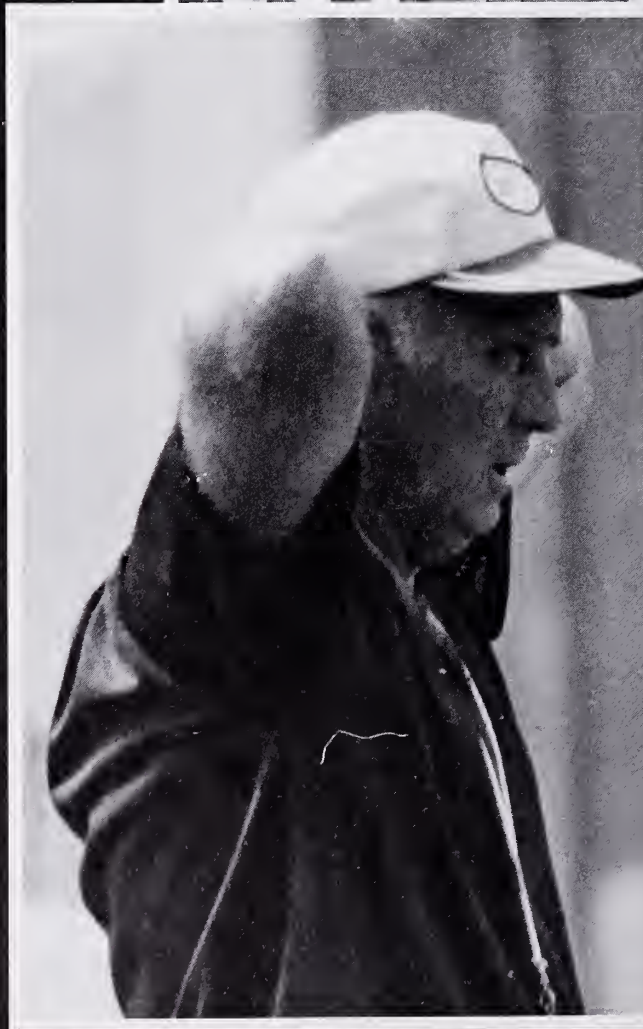

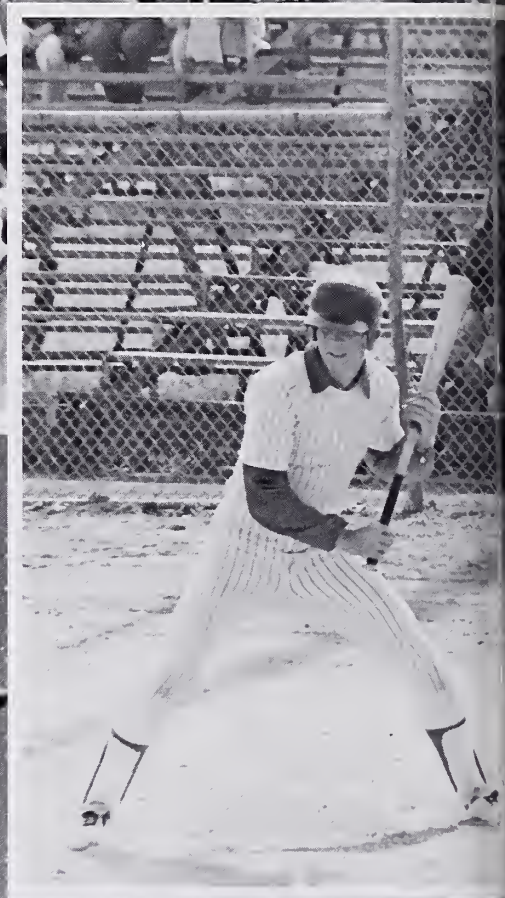

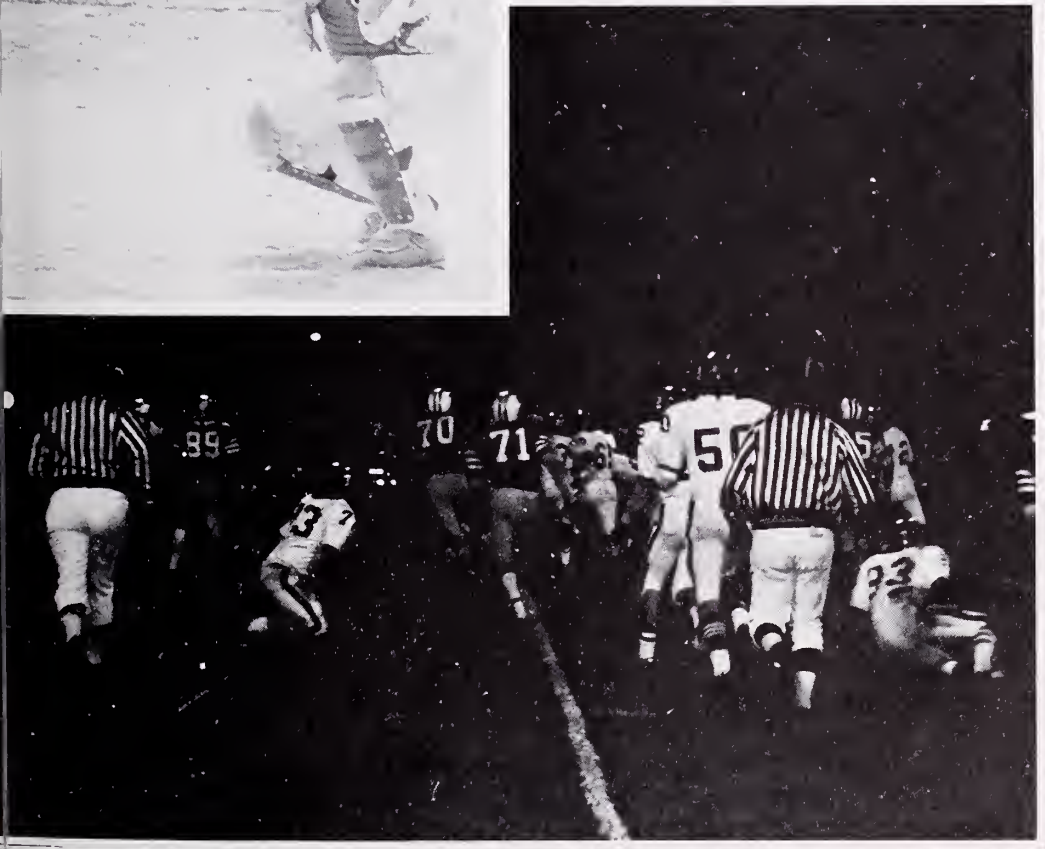

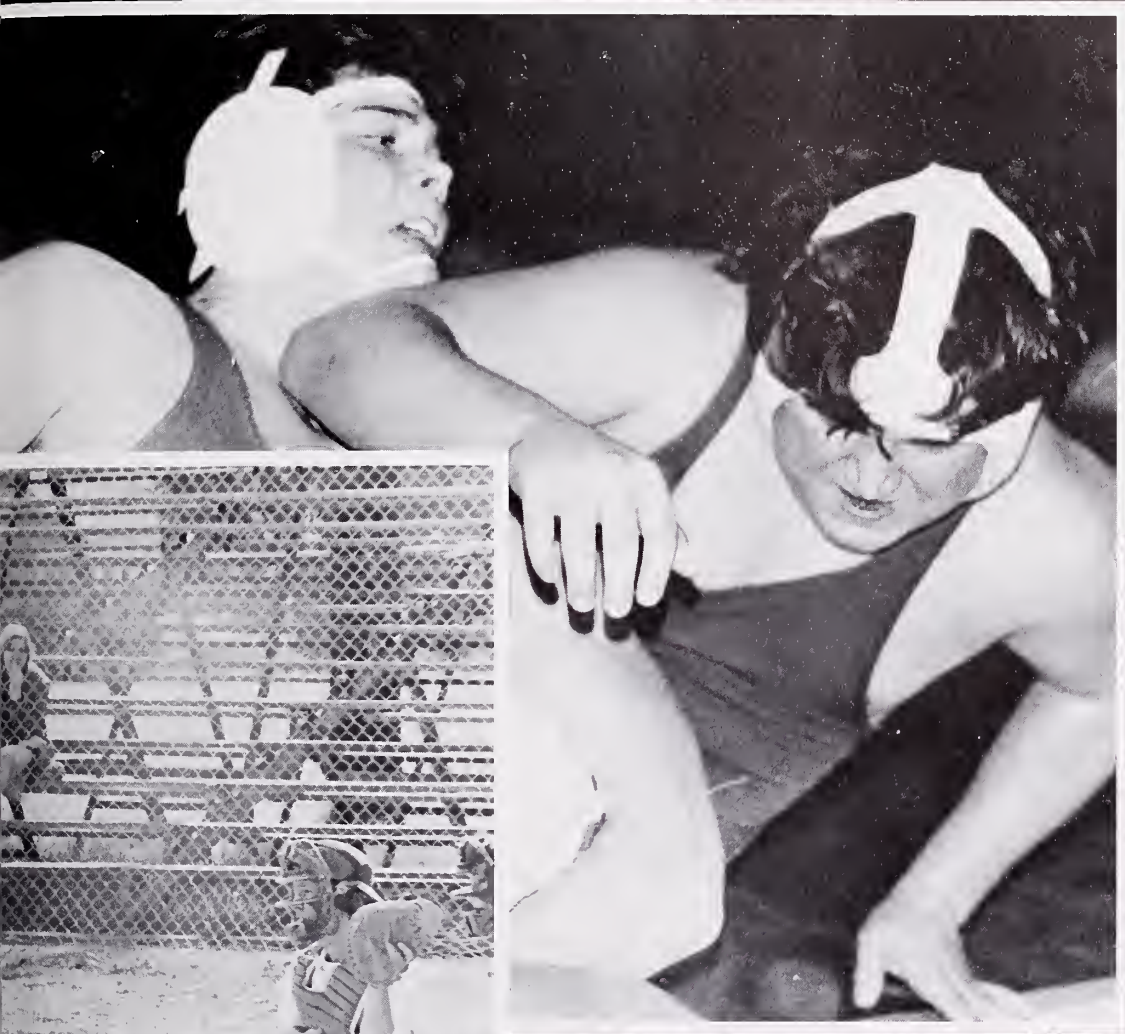

Some National Honor Society members of the Class of '76 listen carefully as their three Valedictorians speak.

The excitement that graduation brings is expressed on the face of Kim Carter as she and Melissa Davis offer each other Congratulations.

After the Alma Mater and Benediction, it was all over. Many were happy but also very saddened as they looked around and said good-bye to some friends and acquaintance. Tears and hugs brought more tears and hugs. The closeness that the Class of '76 possesses is rare, and each member has enriched the lives of everyone else in the class. Congratulations to the Spirit of '76 as they move on into their futures.

SPORTS

The referee seems to be all that separates Senior running back Timmy Weeks from the rush of the Clifton Forge defense.

With the goal line only a few steps away, Junior Butch Hostetter jogs toward a TD as the Covington defense chase him in vain.

Ready for the game, Jarrett, Poindexter, Mitchell, and Craney lead the LHS Big Red Machine out onto the field.

Brewbaker's brawny bunch

Before the Homecoming game, Coach Brewbaker gives the team their final instructions in the form of a pep talk.

On the opening kickoff, Junior Chico Mackey sends the ball flying downfield high in the air to insure little runback.

Ready to jump on the Lee High defensive line, the Scarlet Hurricane offensive line sets up before a TD.

The opponent is left in the dust as Junior David Jarrett runs down field with Senior Conrad Craney at his side to ensure a TD.

As Senior Stuart Brewbaker drops back to pass, the two teams collide in what appears to be complete mayhem.

Hot August afternoon practices were the beginnings of the 1975 football season. After haircuts and physicals, the team proceeded to win all of its scrimmages. When the official season began in the second week of September, the players ventured onto the gridiron to slug it out with traditional district rivals plus some new opponents. Lord Botetourt was one of the new teams scheduled, and LHS handily defeated them in the Homecoming game. The Big Red also got revenge on Lee of Staunton in no uncertain terms. This year, the Hurricane played extremely well against Cave Spring which is a triple A school. Tri-captained by Seniors Tim Poindexter, Shan Mitchell, and Conrad Craney, the team improved its record by winning 7 of 10 games. Student support of the team returned this year, too. Since they had a very successful year, the team was able to bring the LHS student body together once again.

Few teams could get past the Hurricane defensive backfield. Here, they get set to stop the Lee offensive threat.

Junior Varsity finish season 2-4

At one of the first practices, the J.V. team listens intently as Coach Redden gives them some basic fundamentals.

Because warm-up exercises allow players to loosen up, two J.V.'s touch their toes before practice starts.

Though the Junior Varsity Redmen were unexperienced this year, they ended up with two big wins in the 1975-76 season. After a slow start the team let out all the stops and defeated Fort Defiance by 22 points. Then following two other disappointing losses, the J.V.'s came up with an exciting win over Stuarts Draft. Throughout the season, LHS faced schools with much bigger and more experienced players. But under the able coaching of Mark Redden and Mike Brown, and with co-captains Kevin Poindexter and Mark Shaner, the team overcame many obstacles. Next year with many players returning, the experience needed will come through in many of the young and talented players.

Running some meets in the rain and cold, the 1975-76 Cross Country team did not do as well as hoped. The team had many close meets, losing three by only a few points each. Running the VMI course, the team placed 2nd in the District Meet. In the Regional Meet held on the Eastern Mennonite course, Lexington finished 4th out of a field of 14 teams. In the annual 6 mile Lexington to Buena Vista Road Race, LHS's relay team was 4th out of 10 teams with a time of 29:48.

Richard Bird, Charlie Miller, (co-captains) and Jack Ditt all bettered last years school record held by Eddie Tabbutt. Bird now holds the record of 17:28, the old one being 17:47.

During afternoon practice, LHS Cross Countrymen take laps around the track to get in good shape for the first meet.

After finishing the race, Charlie Miller pauses with friends and spectators to watch his teammates finish.

Jumping high up in the air, Senior co-captain Karen Blackwell tries to shoot the ball over the defensive player.

Warm-ups before the game are important, so Sophomore Leanne Farrar gets in a little practice doing lay-ups.

Anxiously awaiting the rebound of a free throw, Senior co-captain Anne Sauder gets ready to jump.

Going down court closely guarded by the opponent, Junior YoYo Roane dribbles the ball to set up a good shot.

During a time-out, Coach Martha O'Connor explains a new strategy to her team as they pass the water around.

The 1975 Varsity Girls' Basketball team romped to its most successful season in its third year under able coaches Ms. Martha O'Connor and assistant Ms. June Mays. Having begun practice August 19th, the team mixed talent with determination, hustle, and teamwork to compile a 4-2 home record and 5-8 overall record. Two of the seasons losses came against state champ Lee High. The team won three important district contests at home against Harrisonburg, T.A., and Waynesboro. Three of the Hurricane scored in double figures and Karen Blackwell had a record 33 points. Anne Sauder and Karen Blackwell, who was named to the second Valley District team, were co-captains of the years team. YoYo Roane averaging 13 points a game, was named to the first Valley District team. The team had excellent fan support throughout the season, especially at the first round tournament.

The J.V. Girls' Basketball team improved its record to 3-9 this year as Coach June Mays had a spirited and talented group to work with. The team consisted of tenth, ninth, and eighth graders who were led by Co-captains Judy Pleasants and Kim Poin-dexter who had a 6.2 scoring average. Trena Craney led the team in scoring with a 7.6 point average. The win against Broadway in a close game highlighted the season. Two wins also came against Eastern Mennonite. Several of the losses came in games that were close to the finish, as two games were decided in over-time. Most of the team will be returning next year, and with its experience and spirit, should improve its record again.

Shooting over the opponent's head, Eighth grader Trena Craney retains a good follow through until the ball drops in the basket.

An avid Girls' Basketball fan, Ms. Hays explains to daughter Keltie some of the rules of the game that she doesn't know.

Wrestlers take on new foes

In its third season, the LHS Wrestling team expanded its field of competition by adding 3 new schools to its schedule. This provided them with a chance to grapple with larger, more experienced wrestling teams.

Under the coaching of Tommy Anderson, a former wrestler at VMI, the team started out well but then hit a slump and couldn't seem to get together after that. Many individual wrestlers were outstanding throughout the season. Senior Todd Wohler placed first in the W&L, the District, and the Regional tournaments in the 155 weight class.

In the state tournament, he finished third. Other members of the team who performed exceptionally well were Junior Butch Hostetter and Sophomore Mike McFadden. With some of the matches held in the school gym instead of at VMI, student support of the team continued to be encouraging as the team continues to grow.

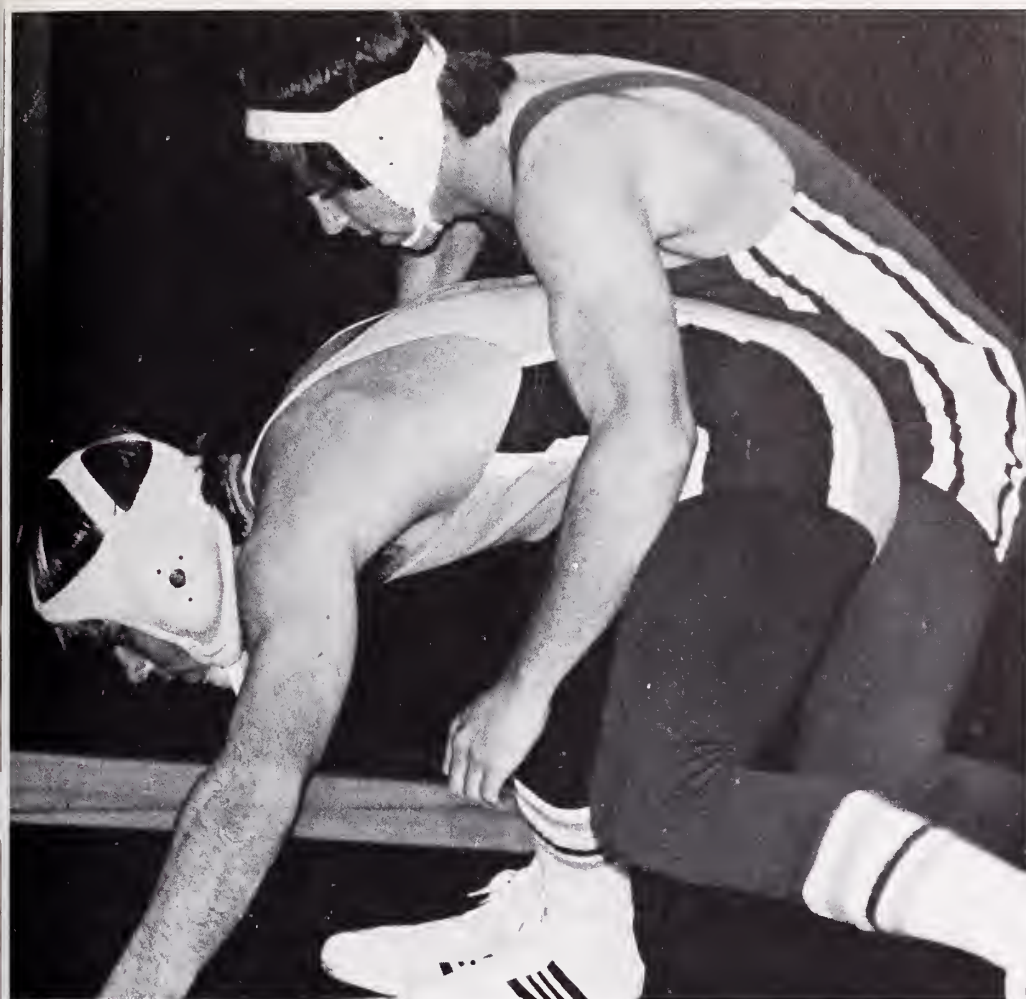

In control of his opponent, Senior Todd Wohler tries to flip his man over so that he can pin him.

After wrestling a tough adversary from Alleghany Co., Senior Mike Goodhart is declared the winner by the referee.

Taking notes as each wrestler grapples, Coach Anderson and members of the team watch the heavyweight match intently.

get off to good start

The Scarlet Hurricane Basketball team got off to a good start with wins in nondistrict contests. After half of the season had been covered, the team sported a 6-3 record. The good times were highlighted with a high scoring win over district foe Turner Ashby who at the time was undefeated. But after that, the team lost the next 7 games in a row. Unable to get everybody together, the team consistently played either a good first or second half. As the season came to the final games, the Big Red began to play like a team as they nearly beat rival Harrisonburg on their court, and then played Covington three-fourths of a game before being overcome by perhaps the best team within 60 miles of Lexington. LHS played perhaps their best game of the year in the tournament game.

After putting the ball up, Senior Chris Mason waits to see if the ball will drop in or roll off the rim.

Jumping high to get the possible rebound, Junior Trent Craney goes up against a Blue Streak.

Amazing crowds all season long with his great jumping ability, Junior Don Dock displays his famous style.

With a smile on his face, Senior Chris Mason passes the ball while closely guarded by a Harrisonburg defender.

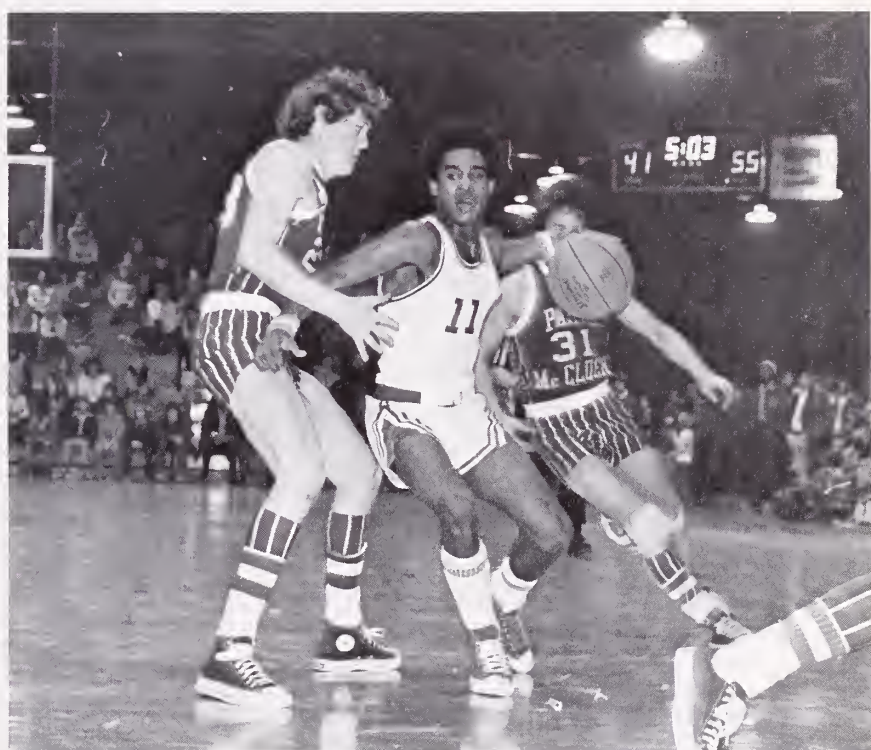

Disunity plagues season

In every school, there are good times and bad times. 75-76 marked the bad ones for the Basketball team. Player disunity tore at the spirit of the team. By the end of the season, there was little total team spirit left, which was unfortunate for a team with such potential. It should be noted, however, that the players who finished the season never quit trying. They gave it their all until the final game of the year.

This years team had only three Seniors: Chris Mason, Charlie Miller, and Bro' Payne, all of whom added the necessary experience and poise needed at crucial times. One of the most outstanding players on the Scarlet Hurricane Basketball team this year was Don Dock, who was honored by being named to the first-team All-Valley District squad.

Trying to get around the opponent, Senior Charlie Miller looks around to pass the ball to Junior Kenny Nowlin.

Hands and heads up! Senior William Payne jumps up to tap the ball in the net at a Christmas tournament game.

With a Blue on each side, Junior Chico Mackey dribbles the ball toward the net while trying to lose the defensive men.

shows in J.V. Redmen

Several players who will play either Varsity or JV Basketball next year showed a lot of improvement during the season. They did this despite the fact that other JV teams in the district were taller. Outstanding players included "Wennie" Miller who averaged 14.8 points per game, and Ricky Slagle who had a 10.75 rebounding average. A big win over Turner Ashby highlighted a season of relatively close games. Under the new coaching guidance of Mr. Meeks and Mr. Redden, the entire team was dedicated to hustle. Next year, the Varsity squad will gain some young but talented players from the JV team.

With his eye on the basket, Sophomore Ricky Slagle stops dribbling to shoot while Steve Entsminger watches.

Using his dribbling skill, Sophomore David Miller gets the ball down court despite the close defense.

Unable to get a clear shot, Robert Kyle bounces the ball to a teammate between two Covington players.

Indoor Track has

In the District Indoor Track meet, Senior Richard Bird holds a steady pace to keep second place in the 2 mile.

After a good handoff, Junior Larry Scott takes the baton and then takes off to hold the lead in the 2 mile relay.

Going around the curve, two Lexington trackmen, Charles Friedman and Hunter Nichols, set the pace for the mile.

good team turnout

This season was the first year that Indoor Track was considered a separate sport; that is, the first time coaches were separately appointed to guide the team. The coaches were Mr. Bremner and Mr. Humphreys. There was a good turn out for the team by both boys and girls, however most of them were inexperienced. The team consisted of mostly Freshmen and Sophomores, but there were enough Juniors and Seniors to provide strong leadership. Highlights of the 1976 season included the breaking of 3 school records. In running events, Tony Grennes captured the school record with a 1:22.9 time in the 600 yard run, and Don Dudley broke the 1000 yard run record with a time of 2:31.0. In field events, Don Dock jumped a record 5'8" in the High Jump.

Lexington's new Cable TV station offers Mr. Edwards a chance to discuss the track season with Coaches Bremner and Humphreys.

As a few spectators look on, Richard Bird jogs across the finish line after a long, hard race.

The finish line straight ahead, Junior Jeff Crowder gives it all he's got to beat Waynesboro in the 2 mile relay.

Season's record: 8-8

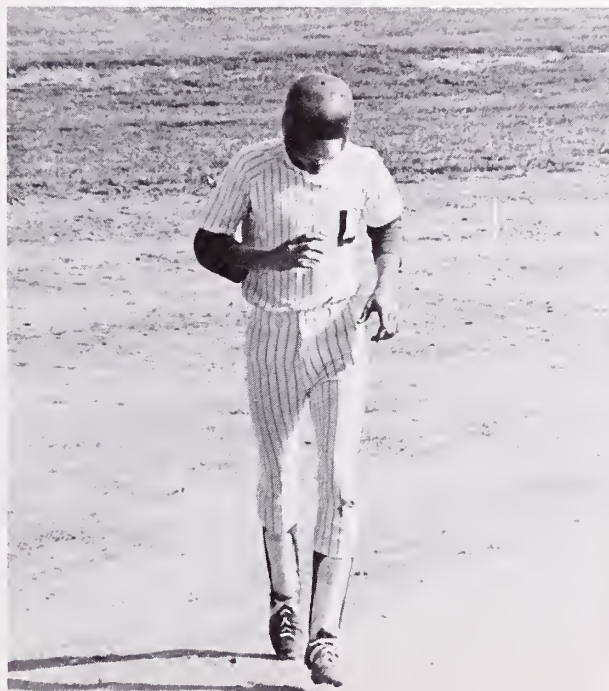

Standing near home plate, Coach Jim Bowen seems perplexed by a call of the umpire and appears ready to say something.

After losing to Broadway by 1, a dejected Carl Mutispaugh jogs toward the locker room all by himself.

Having hit a double to center field, September 1976, Danny Weeks takes off toward first to put the tying run on base.

During a hot afternoon match, Junior Chip King awaits his turn to tee off as he watches his teammates go first.

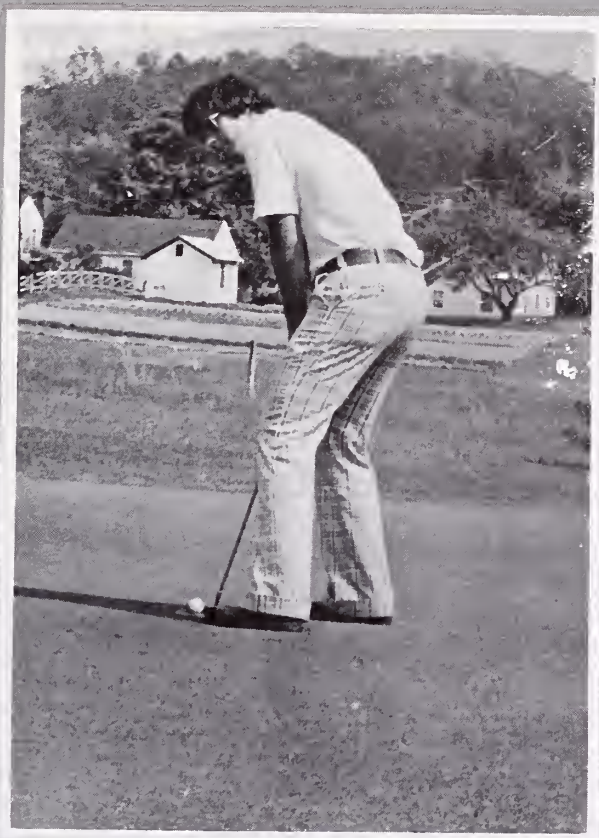

Junior Barry Mutispaugh putts his way out of a tight spot as former student Steve Fifer and teammate Stuart Brewbaker watch.

For the second year in a row, the Lexington High School Golf team won the State Golf Title. This championship went a step beyond last year as Senior David Brogan was state medalist. The team played exceptionally well all season long and ended with a 14-1 season record, the only loss to R.E. Lee in the last match of the year. Match after match, the Hurricane golfers handily defeated AA and AAA schools. Building up to the state tournament, the district and regional tournaments were won by Lexington by quite impressive scores. Seniors David Brogan and Stuart Brewbaker, Junior Barry Mutispaugh and Sophomore Brian Brewbaker represented LHS in the state tournament. The trophy is a well-deserved and hard earned symbol of the 1976 Golf season success.

Golf team. Kneeling: Chip King, Alex Macheras, George Dudley, Sonny Veal, Hunter Nichols. Standing: David Brogan, Brian Brewbaker, Stuart Brewbaker, Bill Paxton, Mitchell Shaner, Dick Emrey.

Outdoor Track

Hands outstretched for better balance and added height, Junior John Locher takes to the hurdles.

Exchanging the baton is much trickier than it appears, yet Sophomore Bart Lowery has mastered it to win.

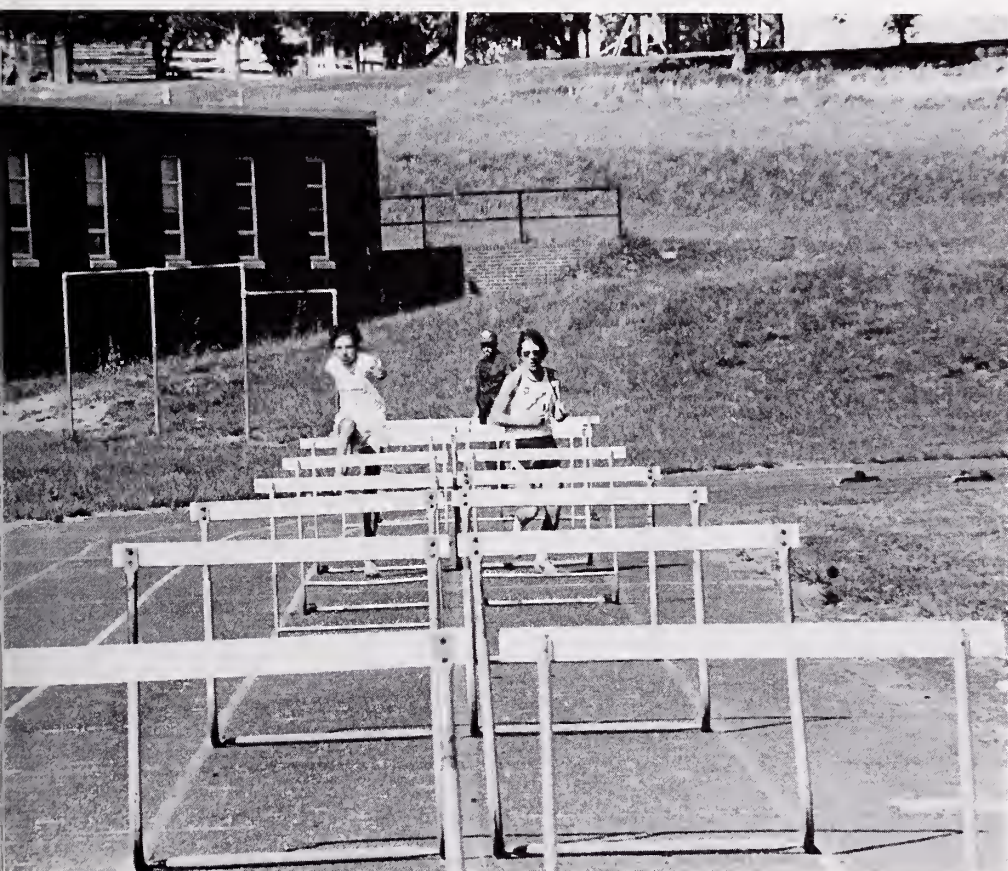

It's the final effort that seems to make all the difference as shown on the face of Sophomore Jimmy McCoy.

Carefully measuring his steps, Senior Todd Wohler approaches a hurdle in a meet against Harrisonburg.

Practice makes perfect! Led by Senior Eddie Tabbut, members of the track team run warm-up laps to get in shape.

At the District meet, Junior Kevin Williamson sets the pace while leading the pack in the two-mile run.

Girls' Track team. Front row: Lisa Nay, Marisa Campos, Leslie Minnix, Shannon Echols, Grace Ju, Sharon Pearson. Second row: Barbara Williams, Marlene Berry, Barbara Carpenter, Janet Bowles. Third row: Clare Becht, Anne Sauder, Cathy Pierce, Betsy Pickral, Susan Lauck, Shawn Engleby, Laura Kirkland. Back row: Coach June Mays, Suzie Grist, Kim Echols, Karen Battle, Susan Brownell, Anne Hypes, Coach Martha O'Connor.

A look of sheer determination appears on the face of Senior Anne Sauder as she throws the shot.

In a meet with Lee High, Sophomore Susan Brownell leaps high over the hurdle to win one of many races.

3rd place trophy

Out in front of everyone else, Sophomore Leanne Farrar stretches out over the hurdle to win her heat.

The 1976 Girls' Track team under head coach June Mays and assistant Martha O'Connor began its second season with high hopes but little experience, yet waltzed away with the third place trophy at the state meet. Several weeks of hard practice preceded the first meet. During the season LHS chalked up one win over BV and a second place finish in a tri-meet where the Hurricane faced more experienced teams. Obvious improvement was shown as most of the school records were broken in the course of the season. LHS placed fourth in the District meet, and four members qualified for the Regional meet. In regional competition, Susan Brownell won the 80-yard hurdles, placed second in the high jump and third in the long jump and 440 yard dash, and Leslie Minnix placed sixth in the 880 run. In the state meet held one rainy Saturday afternoon, Susan Brownell scored all the Hurricane points, winning and setting state records in the long jump and the hurdles. She also tied for the high jump record.

Showing superb form, Susan Brownell goes up over the high jump bar in district competition.

After gaining enough speed, Sophomore Sharon Pearson puts everything she has into her triple jump.

We got the spirit, oh yeah!

During the Homecoming Parade, Senior Beth King and other cheerleaders lead cheers while heading to school for the movie.

The Band playing music, the cheerleaders cheering, and the student body yelling provides a perfect Pep Rally setting.

After a year's absence, the LHS spirit that many students remember had a big comeback. The student body supported Varsity and Junior Varsity athletic teams in almost every sport. The Cheerleaders did a super job of rekindling the LHS spirit with the help of their sponsor, Ms.

Martha O'Connor. At Pep Rallies, Class Competitions were louder than ever before! Unbiased persons judged the yelling contests. This year, the Sophomores were the first class ever to beat the Class of '76, but the Seniors knew that the spirit shouldn't be divided by classes.

"We got the spirit, oh yeah! We got it good..."

Interests vary from sports to gov't

Having spent the summer as a Page in Congress, Trudy Reeves tells of her Washington, D.C. experiences.

The Spirit of '76, one of the most unified classes ever to trod through the halls of LHS, wound up its collection of memories. Most of them good, and all an important result of being in such a remarkable class. A disease known as "Senioritis" plagued many members of the class early in the year. Some Seniors did work, others attended classes at W&L, while most just looked forward to graduating. Being on top brought new privileges, such as leaving 6 minutes early for lunch (3 more than in years past), and marching into assemblies. It also granted them the right of finding out about the infamous Research Project from Ms. Hays and Ms. Doane. "Big Brother" stared down at Seniors in Mr. Gumenik's English classes: Is he watching?

SAT's and Achievement Tests were taken and college applications filled out as some Seniors prepared to continue their educations. Others, who already had careers planned, made ready to go out into the world. In December, graduation announcements were ordered in anticipation of June. But between those times, plans were made for the Senior trip to Washington on March 31. Philadelphia had been suggested, but it was determined that it would be too expensive for most people. Arrangements were also made for the Senior picnic to Shenandoah Acres after the idea of going to King's Dominion in Richmond was eliminated.

In the area of politics and foreign affairs, Seniors were quite active. Some participated in the Mock Convention at W&L by being delegates or pages. Also, 12 people representing UN delegations were sent to VMI to compete in debates. The Senior class was again distinguished by the fact that they hosted Lexington's first foreign exchange student, Marisa Campos from Peru. The Homecoming Dance, the last dance sponsored by the class, had decorations worthy of a Prom. The band, however, did not bother to show up, so therefore the dance was less than a complete success. Representing the Seniors were Vanessa Kyle and Tami Goodbar, while Kim Carter was Homecoming Queen and Robin Deacon Maid of Honor.

The Spirit of '76 moves on . . .

"A locker is an ideal place to put Seniors," exclaims Ms. Hays as she closes the door on Alexander Tucker.

Throughout their term at LHS, this class left a lot of marks. When college applications were sent by Guidance, a letter was included informing the admissions offices of the unusually high grade point averages of a large percentage of the class. It was a tight race for the top rankings, too.

After ordering their graduation announcements, caps, and gowns, Seniors realized that this is it! Five years of living and learning at LHS climaxed on June 6, 1976. The big events of the year: the Senior trip, the Senior picnic, the Prom, Graduation, and (for most) turning 18 years old will be remembered a long time. Forever and always, the Spirit of '76 moves on and on . . .

In Memory

Gregory Austin Parsons

A lot of my activity and state of mind depend upon a few selected other people. In other words, they are responsible, to a certain extent, for my actions. Maybe it isn't right to place this responsibility on their shoulders, but if they didn't exist to do this, neither would I.

I am responsible for a lot of parts of other people's lives.

A stunning thought that is, that if I were not here, how many people's lives would not be the way they are.

It must be all some master plan.

Busy year for Juniors! Money, money, money — got to have a great Prom! Plenty of projects (and hard work) to raise it: "Hey, wanna buy a trash can?" There was the Powder Puff game — hairy-legged cheerleaders, Ms. Ramsey trying to sound like Howard Cossell. We made over $150 off the game, since the Seniors gave up their share of the profit for some free labor at graduation time. The Christmas Dance was a success — about $100 worth. The band even showed on time, which had become a rare occurrence at LHS dances. But money wasn't everything! We all chewed fingernails over PSAT's. Then in late November posters went up saying, "Your Herff Jones ring man is coming!"

 Sure enough — at long last — our man came on December 9 with the rings. There were only a few complaints among pleased
 "Ooh's" and "Ahh's". Spring rolled slowly around — SAT's, spring fever, and, finally, the big night! The Prom — one of the greatest ever at LHS — capped off a year of fun and hard work.
 Everyone looked forward to coming back as Seniors in the fall.
 But as every Junior at LHS always realizes, the 5 years go fast and going into your Senior year makes you wonder where the past
 4 years have gone. There were at

Class officers were elected in the fall with Barbara Williams chosen as president, Amy Conner as vice president, and Reid Snider as secretary/treasurer. Along with the football season came Homecoming . . . Susie Grist and Amy Conner represented the tenth grade in the Queen's Court. defeat them at another. Some thought that the students were getting too serious about the outcome of the pep rallies, but on the whole, most people seemed to just enjoy having good-natured fun and a sore throat the next day! There were surges of sophomores seen at school dances, and they sponsored one of their own. The Valentine's Dance, held on Feb. 14, had Destiny for its band. days. Many members of the class of '79 were a part of different sports, active as either team members, spectators, or cheerleaders. Freshmen were also especially proud to have amongst them the only female member of the cross country team. Many ninth graders also participated in various extracurricular activities, either joining new groups or continuing with the old. The members of the freshman class were different, finding new courage to be individuals and to go in various directions. Yet, they became more united than ever which will help to carry them through the next three years. Their experiences together will be a part of the Freshman climb to the top.

Eighth

The Class of 1980 arrived at LHS 209 strong. Plunged into a new environment, they quickly learned a lot. "Excuse me. I can't find my next class," was the favorite phrase of eighth graders during the first few weeks of school. After a period of adjustment, however, they settled right into high school life and seemed to rather enjoy it. Feeling the need for acceptance by fellow students and faculty members, novice LHS'ers tried unceasingly to form a unified class that could boast its high moral. Pep Squad proved the best club in which to vent their spirit, and many colorful posters were the products. Through class sponsors Marr, Anderson, Dunlap, Meeks, Overfelt, and Redden, eighth graders enjoyed the privilege of democratic elections. Results — Andy John, President, Judy Pleasants, Vice President, Kim Poindexter, Secretary & Treasurer, and Kathy Gunther, Homecoming Representative. They've only just begun, but this year's class of '80 looks promising as one peers into the future.

8th Graders adjust well to LHS life

Driven down Jefferson Street by Mr. Edwards, 8th grade Homecoming representative Kathy Gunther smiles at the people watching.

Administration stays

As the day nears its end, LHS Office Secretary Mrs. Libby Rhodenizer pauses to talk with a student.

Gathering notices to be read over the intercom, Principal Frank Thompson prepares to give the morning announcements.

During school, Mr. Madison and Mr. Ralph Marchioni stand outside the Office to be sure that students behave themselves.

busy with student needs

Frank Thompson: A.B.; M.Ed. College of William and Mary. Principal. 10 years at LHS.

Ralph Marchioni: B.S. Campbell College; M.Ed. University of Virginia. Vice-Principal. 3 years at LHS.

Mike Madison: B.S. St. Paul's College. Administrative Assistant, D.E. 6 years at LHS.

Performing one of her many duties as Office Secretary, Ms. Charlotte Owens searches for paper to type a letter on.

At summer practice, Mr. Mike Madison — both administrator and football coach, takes a break to watch the team perform drills.

Always flashing his smile, Mr. Tommy Anderson relaxes after a long day of teaching 8th grade Science classes.

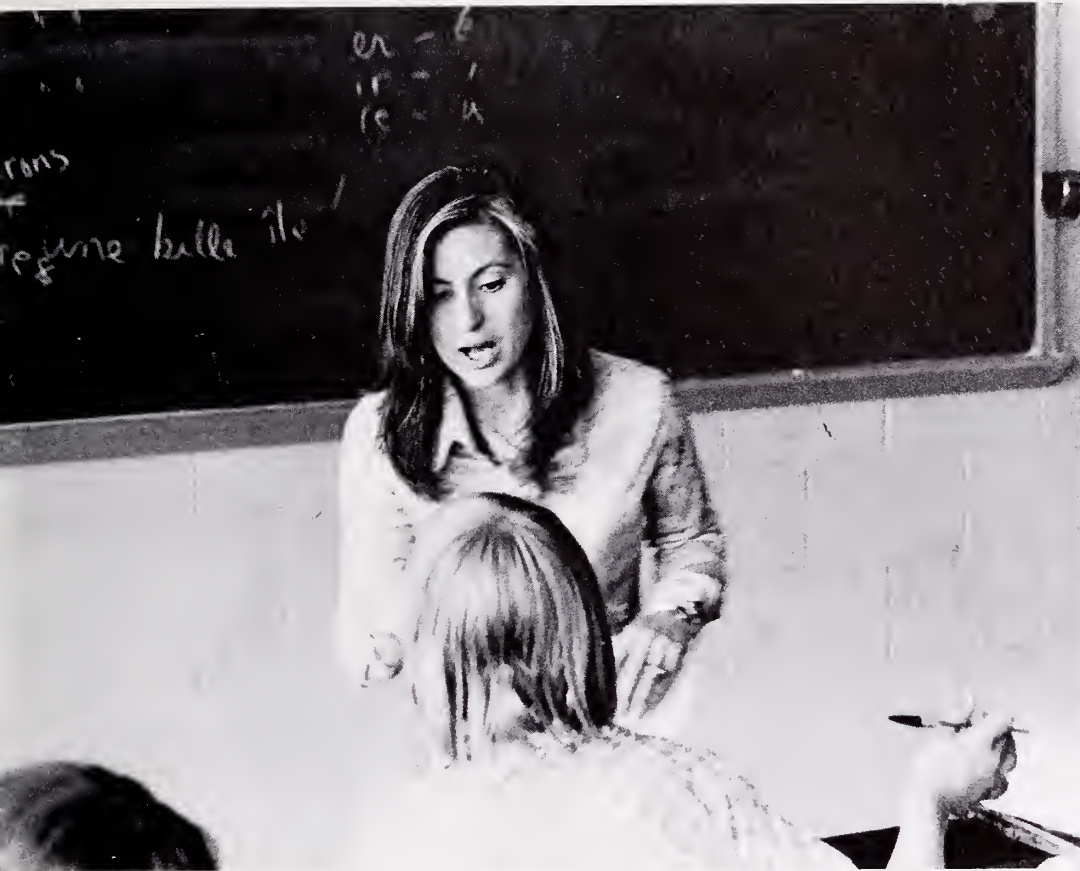

Emily Adamson: Bennett College A.B., University of Virginia M.Ed. Driver Education. 10 years at LHS.
Tommy Anderson: Virginia Military Institute B.S. Science Department. 2 years at LHS.
Nancy Beard-Leonard: Smith College B.A., Alaska Methodist University, University of Virginia, University of North Carolina. Language Department. 1st year at LHS.
Larry Bond: East Tennessee State University B.S., University of Nebraska M.S. Science Department. 8 years at LHS.
James Bowen: University of Richmond B.A. Math Department. 7 years at LHS.
Herbert Bowers: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.S., Wesley Theological Seminary M.D. Agriculture Department. 1st year at LHS.

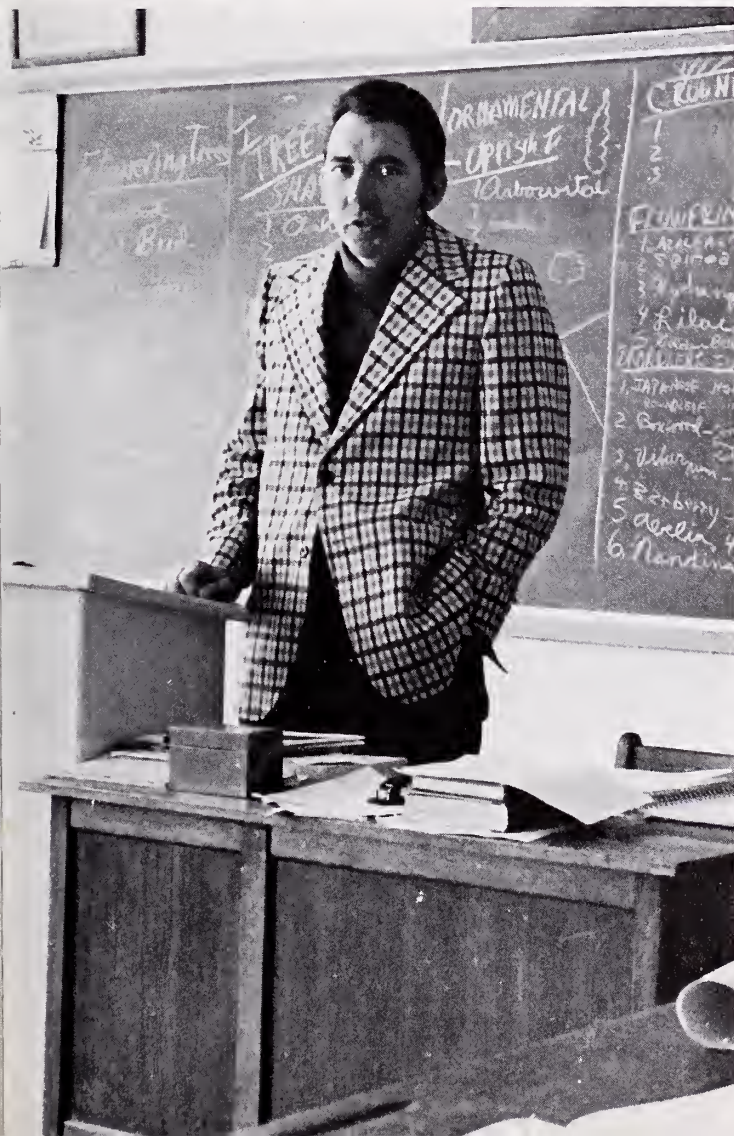

Attempting to entertain his Biology class, Mr. Larry Bond does his renowned Hula dance to the delight of his students.

Something in an Advanced Composition paper amuses Mr. Jim Bowen so he laughs out loud at the crazy idea.

Ten new teachers join LHS faculty

Emphatic in her presentation, Ms. Nancy Beard-Leonard explains a particular difficulty of French grammar.

Some teachers are never late to class due to the small clock that hangs in the teacher's lunchroom. What's the time???

Lecturing to a Shop class, Mr. Herbert Bowers talks about various trees, shrubs, and flowers.

Teachers always willing to help students

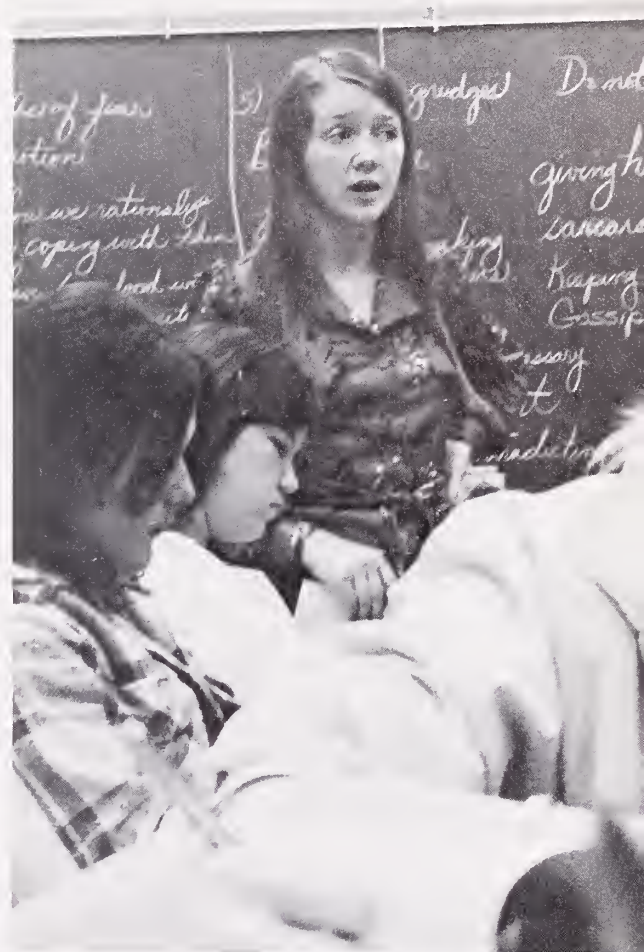

Ernest Bremner: Virginia Tech B.S. Math Department. 2 years at LHS.
Pete Brewbaker: Roanoke College B.S. Physical Education Department. Athletic Director. 38 years at LHS.
Mike Brown: Shaw University B.S. Physical Education Department. 5 years at LHS.
Bob Carrere: Washington and Lee University B.A. Social Studies Department. 4 years at LHS.
Vickie Chambers: Home Economics Department. 1st year at LHS.
Denny Clark: Virginia Military Institute B.A. University of Virginia. English Department. 5 years at LHS.

As a student nears the finish line of the 60 yard dash, Mr. Mike Brown holds the stop watch ready to get his time.

With new curls atop his head, Senior class sponsor Denny Clark seems surprised at the results of a Sophomore English test.

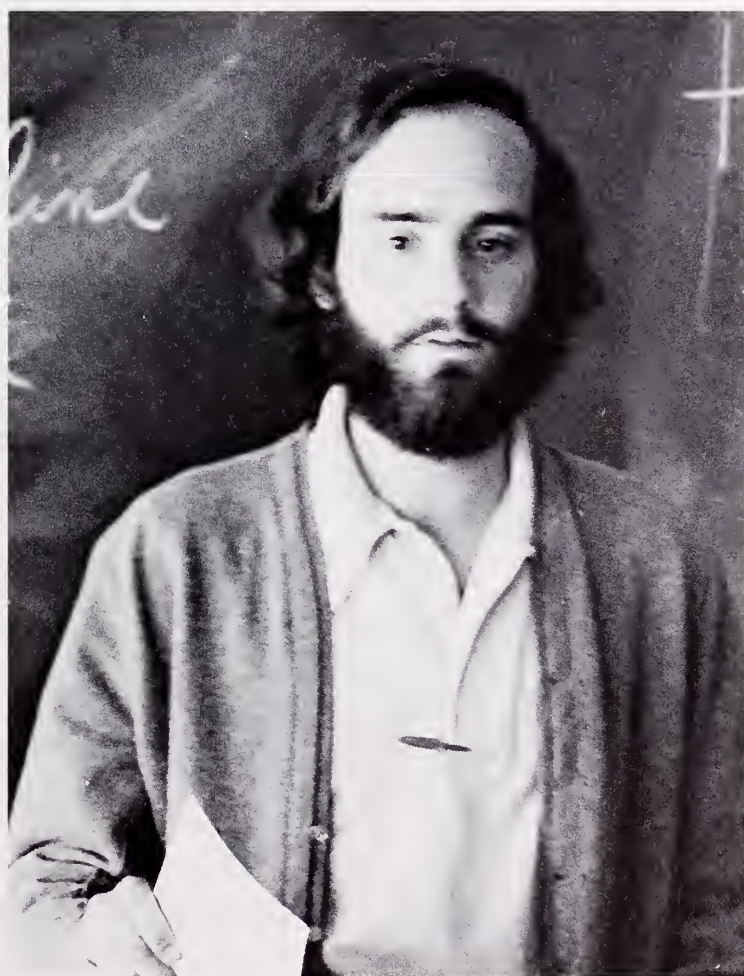

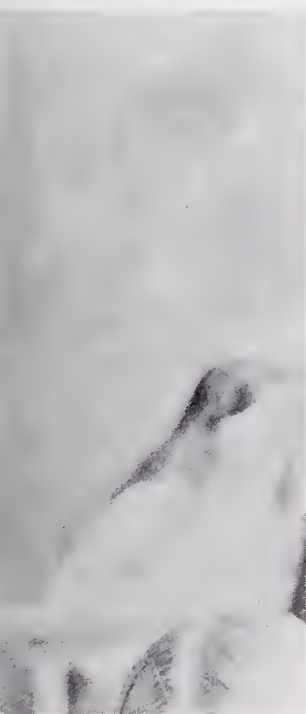

In his second year at LHS, Mr. Ernest Bremner finds teaching easy as he helps an Algebra student with homework.

At a Pep Rally for the Football team, Coach Pete Brewbaker seeks the support of the entire student body.

A Home Ec teacher, Ms. Vickie Chambers lectures her Occupational Food class as they jot down notes.

Preparing to start class, Sociology teacher and Senior class sponsor Bob Carrere appears tired by 6th period.

Mary Clemmer: Guidance Secretary. 3 years at LHS.
Chip Coalter: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.S. Science Department. 7 years at LHS.
Barbara Crawford: Art Department. 1st year at LHS.
Michele Cummings: University of Maine B.S.; University of Connecticut; University of California; Madison College. Guidance Counselor. 4 years at LHS.
Yvonne Dickens: Ohio University A.B., M.Ed.; University of Paris; University of Buffalo; University of Virginia. Language Department. 12 years at LHS.
Susan Doak: Marshall University A.B. English Department. 2 years at LHS.

Organizing student schedules, Guidance Secretary Ms. Mary Clemmer performs one of her many jobs.

Always busy in the Art Room, Ms. Barbara Crawford cleans up the paint brushes after her creative students created.

Guidance Counselor Michelle Cummings pays the coke machine a visit during a short break from her busy day.

Teachers offer students time and talent

"I assure you that it will work," promises Chemistry teacher Chip Coalter as he performs an experiment that probably won't work.

While watching a program on E.T.V., Ms. Susan Doak raises her hand to get the attention of her class.

LHS faculty upholds high

Lee Doane: Lynchburg College B.A. Social Studies Department. 3 years at LHS.

Carter Drake: Mary Washington College B.A. Cherwell School, Oxford; Lynchburg College. Language Department. 1st year at LHS.

Lois Dunlap: Longwood College B.A. University of Tennessee; Virginia Tech. Home Economics Department. 16 years at LHS.

Earl Edwards: Washington and Lee University B.S. Science Department. 5 years at LHS.

Rector Engleman: Virginia Polytechnical Institute B.S., M.Ed. Industrial Arts Department. 19 years at LHS.

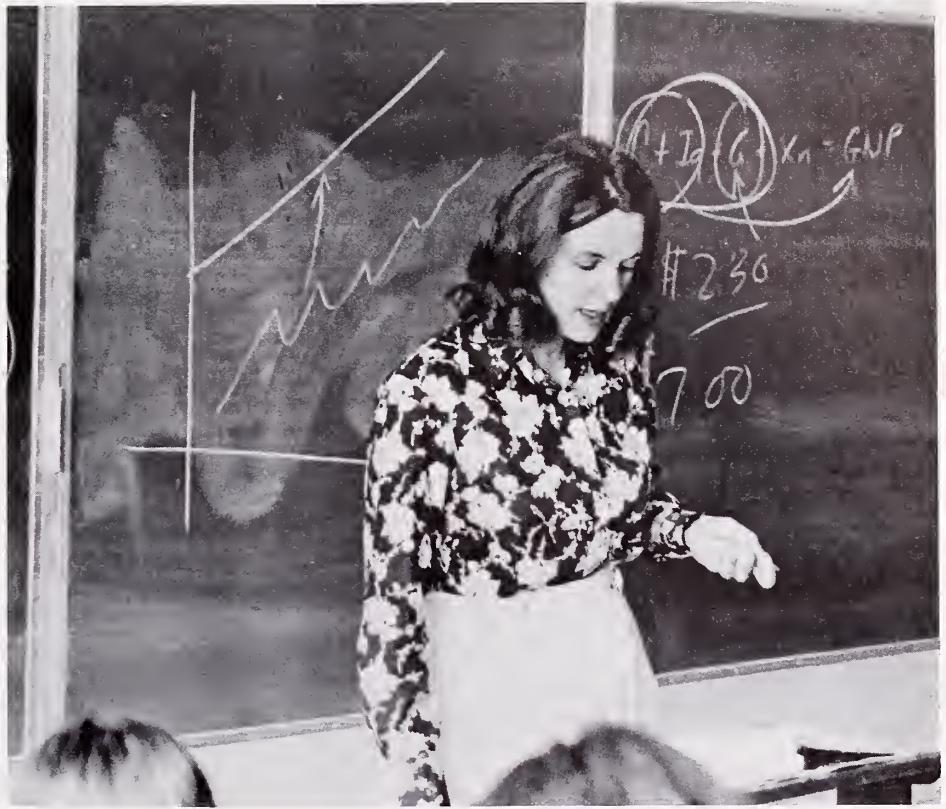

Observing a Home Economics student sew a dress, Ms. Lois Dunlap seems pleased with the progress being made.

Pondering the idea of going to print some pictures for the Crystal, Mr. Earl Edwards thinks it over carefully.

Her Latin class busily at work on murals, Ms. Carter Drake takes a moment to watch the operation in progress.

standards of quality

During a class discussion, Ms. Lee Doane glances at her book while making a specific point about the effect of government on the average person.

As he watches a student work, Mr. Rector Engleman instructs in the proper way of building the desk.

Tim Golden: Virginia Military Institute B.A. English Department. 3 years at LHS.
Arthur Gumenik: Queens College B.A. University of Virginia M.A. English Department. 1st year at LHS.
Peggy Hays: University of Chattanooga B.S. University of Tennessee M.A. Social Studies Department. 9 years at LHS.
Larry Humphreys: Bridgewater College B.A. University of Virginia. Special Education. 2 years at LHS.
Harriet Hypes: Emory and Henry College B.A. Virginia Commonwealth University M.Ed. Guidance Counselor. 4 years at LHS.
Charles Lauck: Washington and Lee University B.A., B.S. University of Virginia M.Ed. Math Department. 9 years at LHS.

Always willing to help a student in need, Ms. Harriet Hypes talks with a fellow faculty member about student schedules.

Having grown a beard, Mr. Arthur Gumenik looks much more debonair as he teaches his Senior English class.

Apparently very happy about something, English teacher Mr. Tim Golden displays his feelings by a big smile.

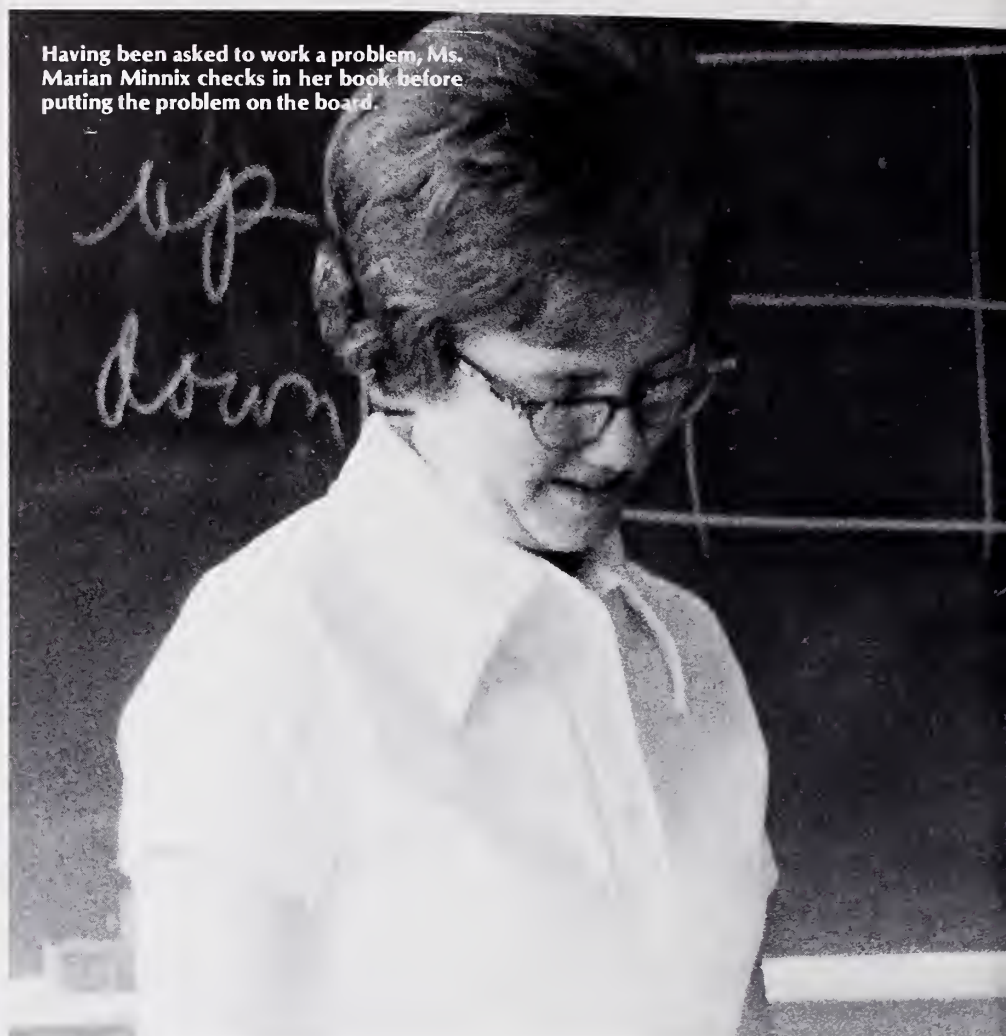

Surprised by the camera, Mr. Larry Humphreys is interrupted from running off worksheets for his Special Ed. class.

Not only a Math teacher, Mr. Charlie Lauck also serves as Cross Country coach. Here, he speaks at a Pep Rally.

Faculty enjoys Lexington atmosphere

Varied interests and ideas

Having been asked to work a problem, Ms. Marian Minnix checks in her book before putting the problem on the board.

Phillip Maness: Guidance Counselor. 1st year at LHS.

Jo Ann Marr: Madison College B.S. Math Department. 3 years at LHS.

June Mays: St. Augustine College B.S. Girls' Physical Education Department. 2 years at LHS.

Tom Meeks: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.A. English Department. 3 years at LHS.

Marian Minnix: Roanoke College B.S. Math Department. 1st year at LHS.

Dorothy Newman: Randolph-Macon Women's College B.A. English Department. 17 years at LHS.

While assisting a student with a Math problem, Ms. Jo Ann Marr finds something amusing in the student's method.

In the Guidance Office, Counselor Mr. Phillip Maness settles down to work on student schedules for the next year.

enrich learning experiences

While not teaching English, Mr. Tom Meeks coaches JV Basketball. Here he advises his team during a time out.

The sudden thought that she left her P.E. class alone puts an apprehensive look on Ms. June Mays' face.

A previous Crystal editor, Ms. Dorothy Newman provides individual assistance to a Junior English student.

Students work with teachers

Martha O'Connor: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.S. Girls' Physical Education Department. 2 years at LHS.

Lynn Parker: Millsaps College B.S. Science Department. 2 years at LHS.

Emory Potter: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.S., University of Virginia M.Ed. Science Department. 14 years at LHS.

Elizabeth Ramsey: College of William and Mary A.B. Social Studies Department. 6 years at LHS.

Pat Randolph: Madison College B.S., M.A. in Ed. Social Studies Department. 4 1/2 years at LHS.

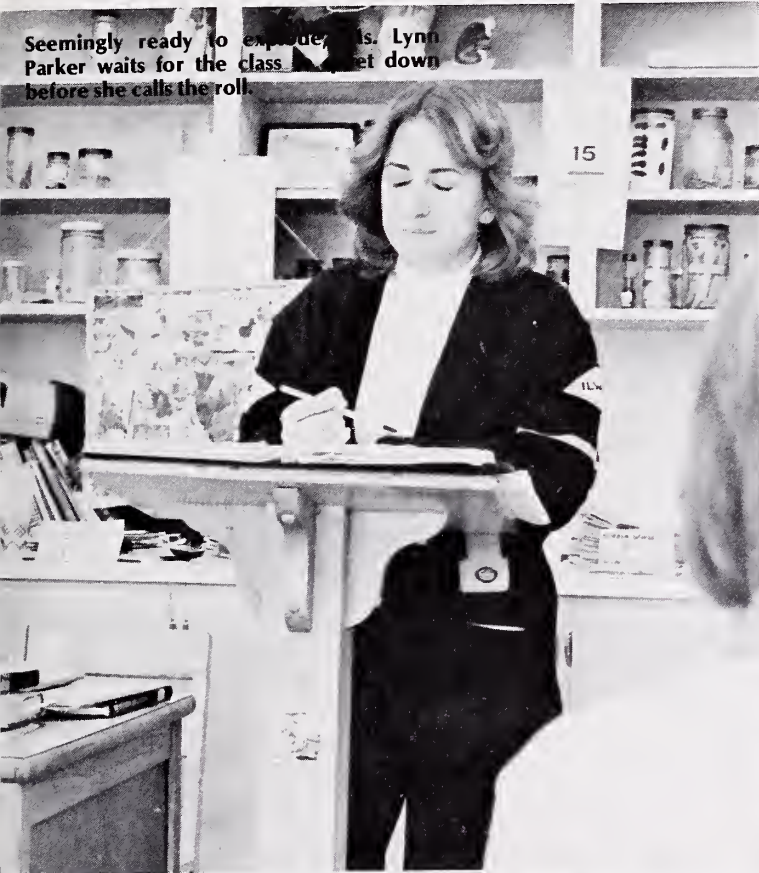

Spirited Cheerleading sponsor Ms. Martha O'Connor strikes a scholarly pose for the camera.

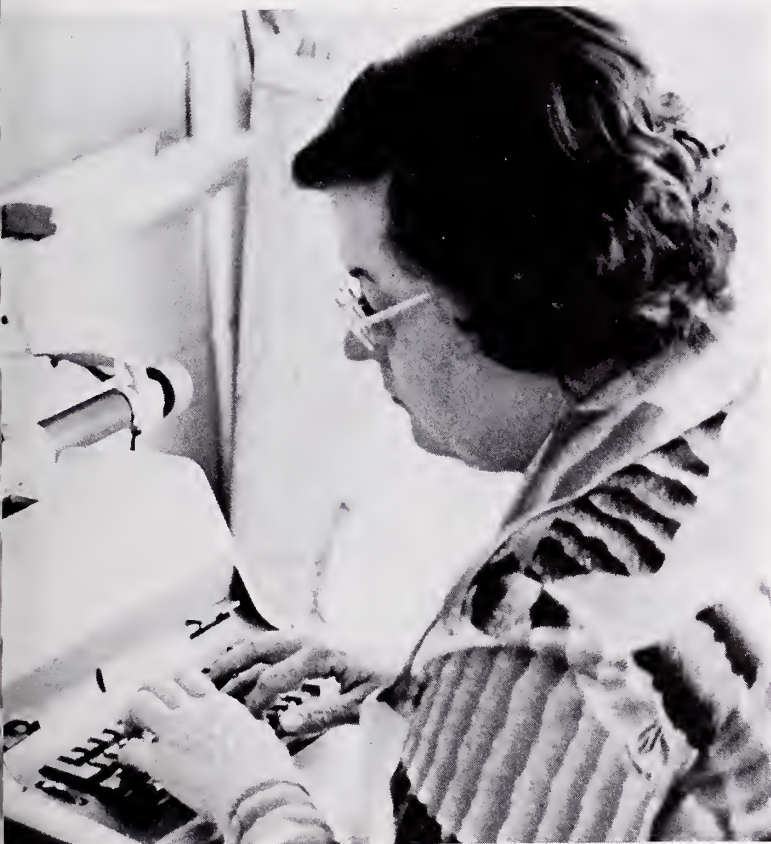

While taking a well-deserved rest from her hectic day of teaching, Ms. Liz Ramsey chats in the teacher's lounge.

for the betterment of LHS

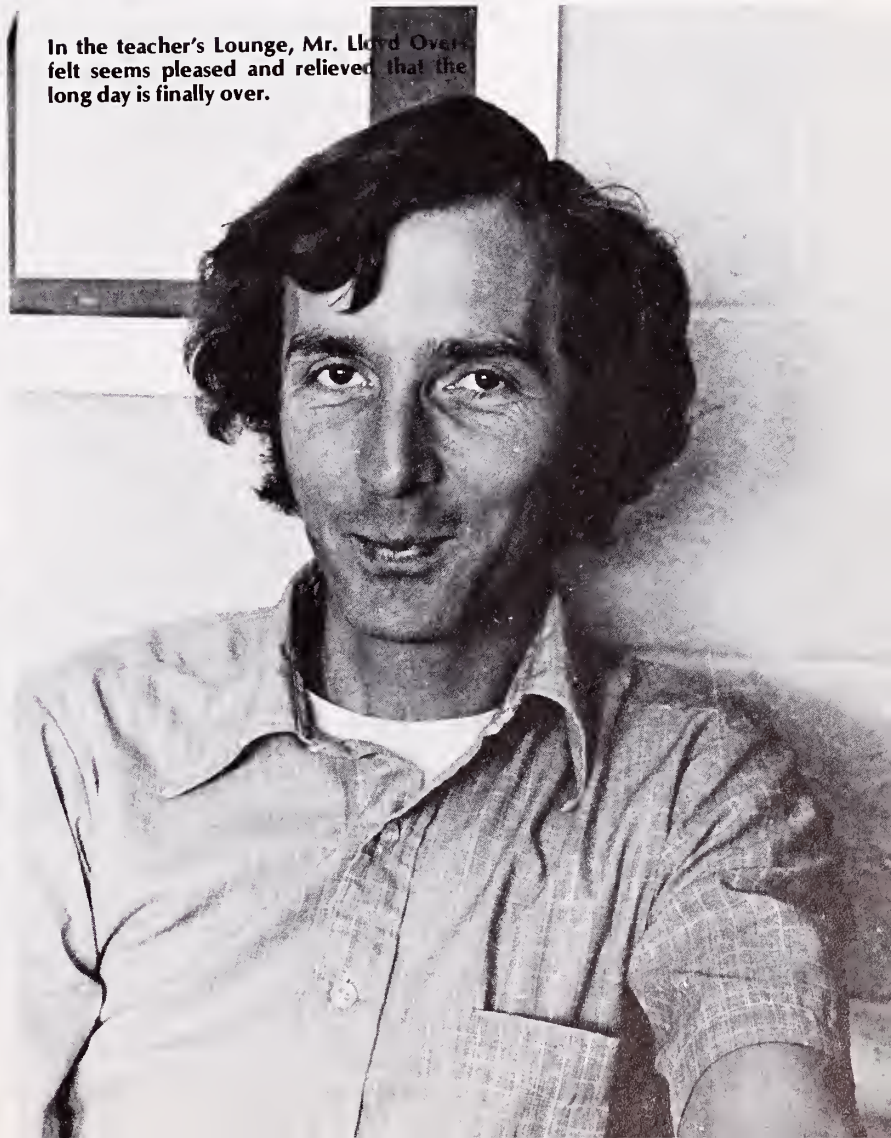

In Study Hall, Mr. Emory Potter talks with students while straightening some material for his Science class.

Seemingly ready to explode, Ms. Lynn Parker waits for the class to get down before she calls the roll.

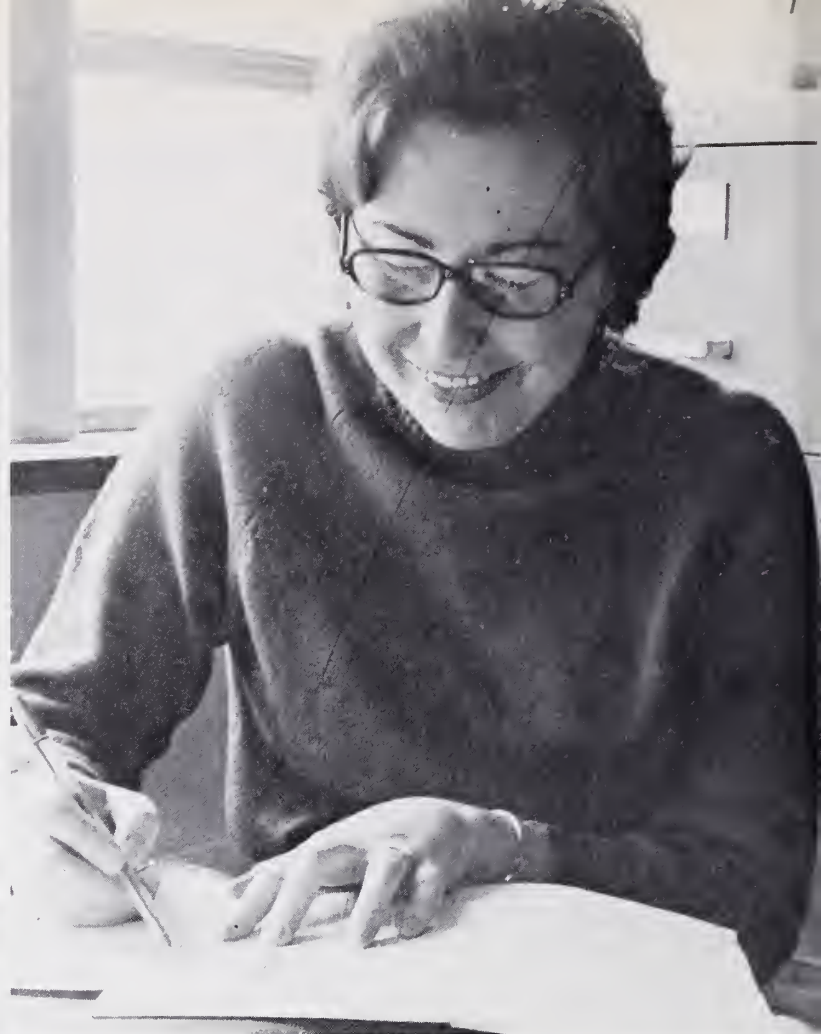

Preparing her mid-year World Geography exam, Ms. Patricia Randolph bangs away at the typewriter.

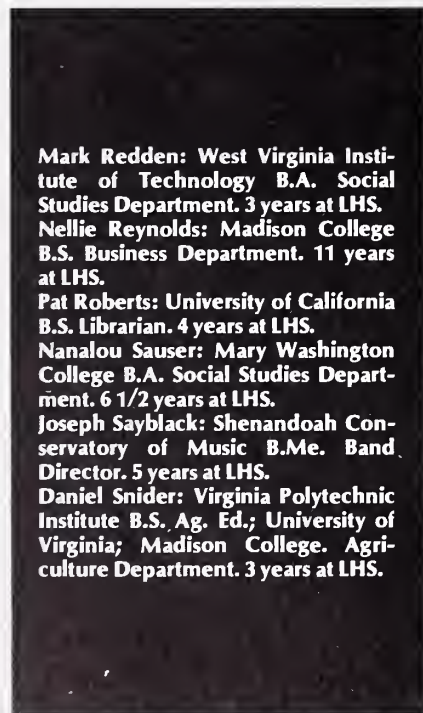

In the teacher's lounge, Mr. Lloyd Overfelt seems pleased and relieved that the long day is finally over.

After Seniors finish their papers, Ms. Pat Roberts has the job of sorting the magazines that they use.

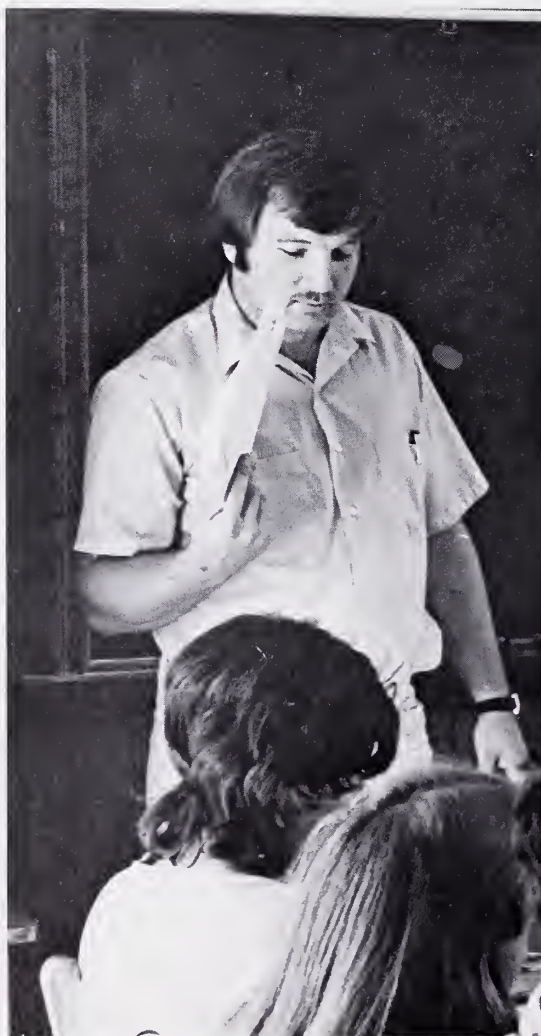

Checking papers is a tedious task to Business teacher Ms. Nellie Reynolds, but she does it with a smile on her face.

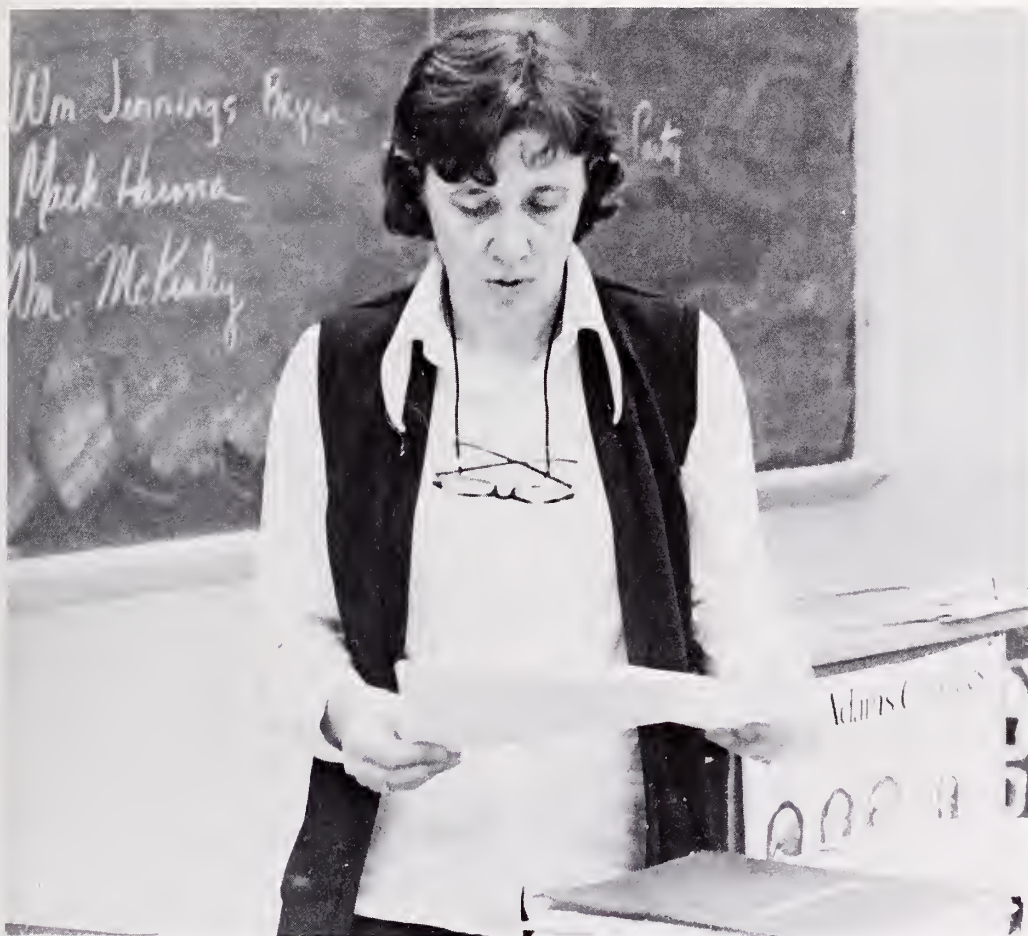

When not coaching J.V. Football and Basketball, Mr. Mark Redden puts his energies to teaching Civics.

Mark Redden: West Virginia Institute of Technology B.A. Social Studies Department. 3 years at LHS.
Nellie Reynolds: Madison College B.S. Business Department. 11 years at LHS.
Pat Roberts: University of California B.S. Librarian. 4 years at LHS.
Nanalou Sauser: Mary Washington College B.A. Social Studies Department. 6 1/2 years at LHS.
Joseph Sayblack: Shenandoah Conservatory of Music B.Me. Band Director. 5 years at LHS.
Daniel Snider: Virginia Polytechnic Institute B.S. Ag. Ed.; University of Virginia; Madison College. Agriculture Department. 3 years at LHS.

Cooperation

Studying the presidents is an important part of U.S. History, so Ms. Nanalou Sauder organizes her notes to teach her Juniors about them.

Experience is the most important tool in Woodworking. Mr. Daniel Snider offers some of his to a Shop student.

During some free time, Band Director Mr. Joseph Sayblack enjoys a coke after a long and hot marching practice.

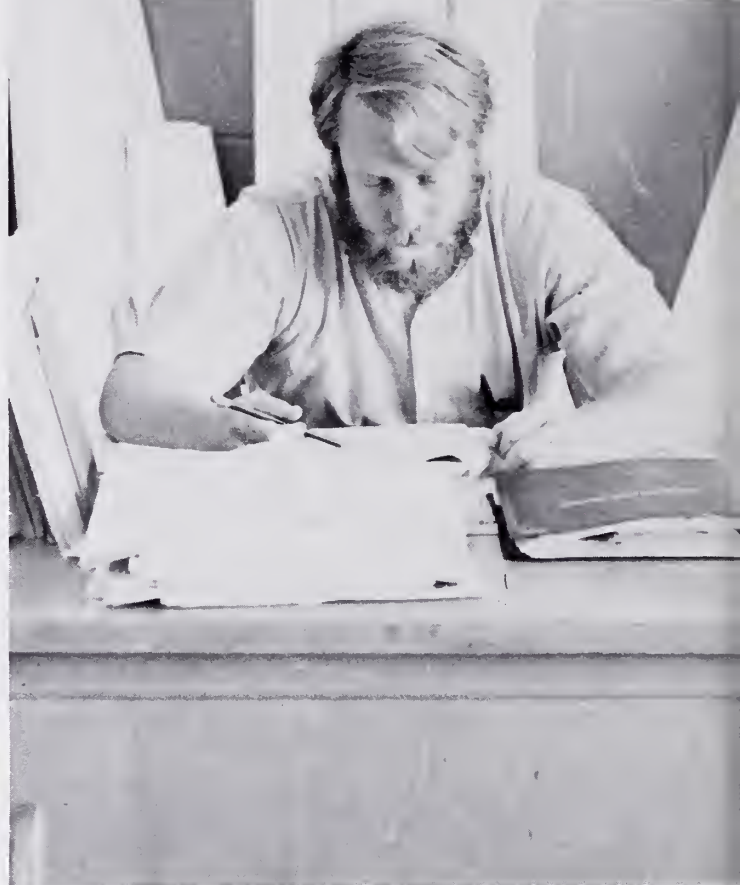

between students and faculty is strong

Always willing to help out her students, Ms. Barbara Winfrey advises Alma Gay Nicholas in Business class.

At the end of the six weeks, Mr. Glen Stark works fast to grade papers so that he can get report cards out on time.

Self-appointed "hall monitor" and driver ed teacher Mr. Lewis Straub checks the movie listings in the paper.

Glen Stark: Bethany State University B.S. Kansas State University M.S. Math Department. 4 years at LHS.
 Lewis Straub: Ferrum College A.A. Virginia Commonwealth University B.S. Physical Education Department. Drivers' Education. 6 years at LHS.
 Robert Walker: Washington and Lee B.A. English Department. 1st year at LHS.
 Joan Whitesell: Madison College B.S., M.S. Business Department. 4 years at LHS.
 Mary Lou Williams: Radford College B.A. English Department. 11 years at LHS.
 Barbara Winfrey: East Carolina University B.S., M.A. Business Department. 10 years at LHS.

Faculty and staff work to Business teacher and Crystal advisor Ms. Joan Whitesell shows Vernon Lewis how to set accurate margins.

A Washington and Lee graduate, English teacher Mr. Robert Walker is a favorite with his Freshman classes.

During a break from teaching her English classes, Ms. Mary Lou Williams relaxes in the teachers' lounge.

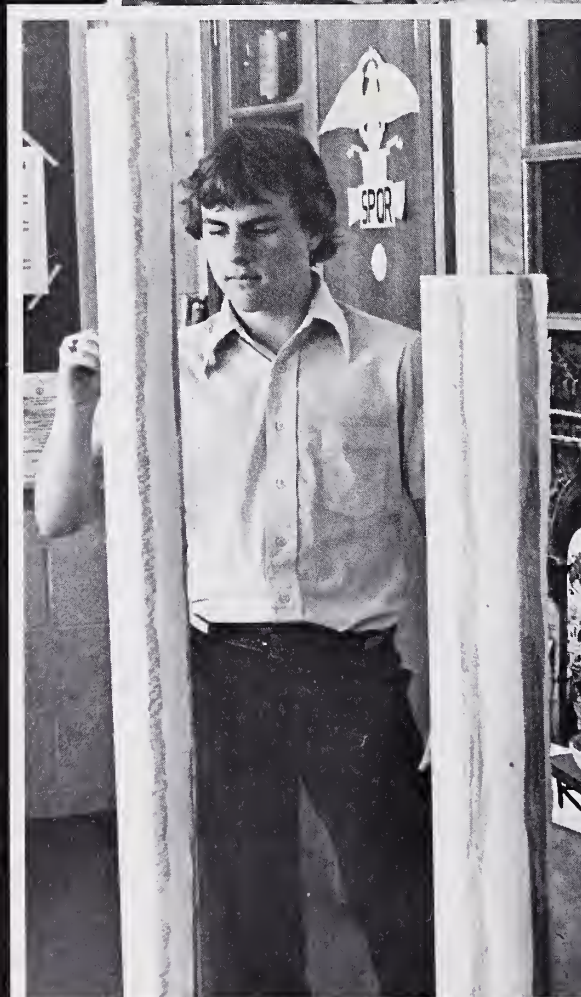

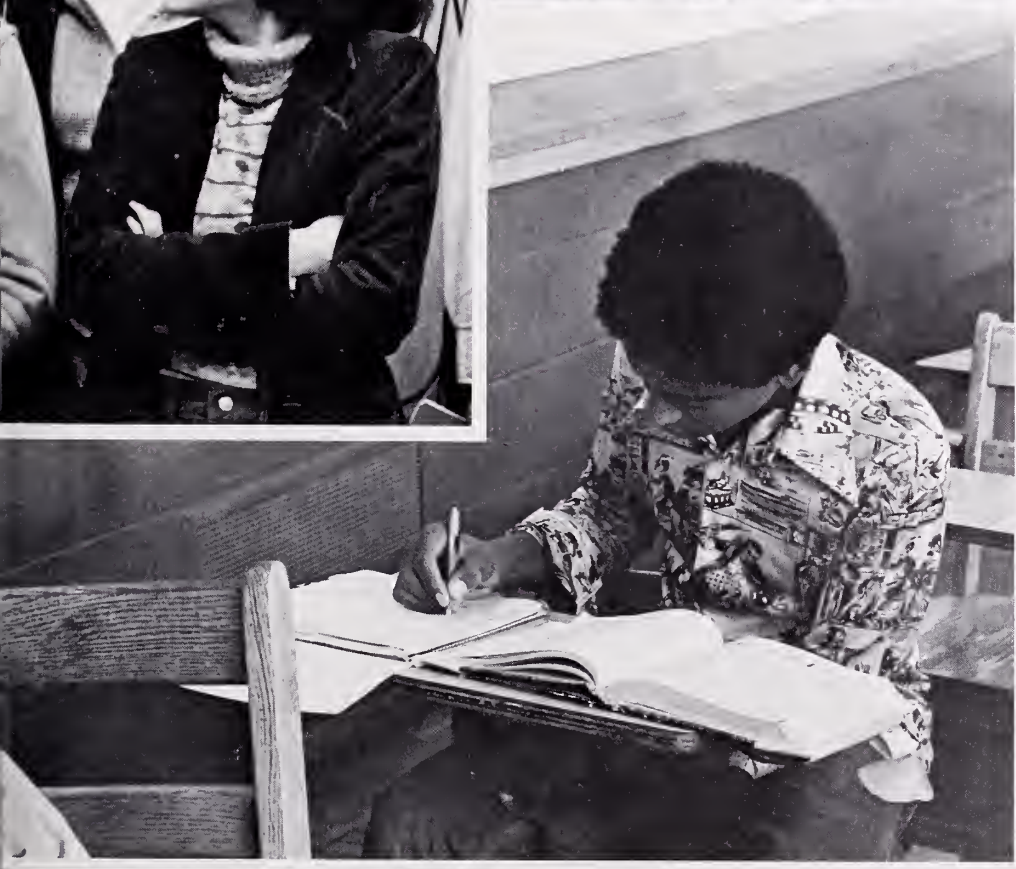

Cafeteria Ladies: Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Nicely, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Sorrells, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Farrow.

please all Lexington students

ACADEMICS

In Art class, Sophomore John Clark doodles aimlessly while waiting for the bell to ring so that he can go to lunch.

Keeping a keen eye on Mr. Sayblack's instruction, Eighth Grader Bill Coleman holds the Reserve Bands beat on the drums.

Music, commonly known as the "Universal Language," has rendered many LHS students' talents and put it together so as it may be useful and pleasing to others, vocally or instrumentally. This may not have been possible if not for Band Director Mr. Joseph Sayblack or Choir Director Mr. Denny Clark.

There were some 100 performers in the Marching Band and nearly 90 in the Concert Band. The Marching Band entertained the crowds at home Football games during half-time and kept spirits alive by playing during the game. The entire band appeared in over 30 public performances during the school year.

The Choir, sometimes accompanied by the Concert Band, performed various concerts. Also featured were the Girls Ensemble, the Jazz Band, and the Reserve Band.

Five members of the Choir were chosen for All Regional Choir. They were: Monty Potter, Bobby Kirkpatrick, David Sorrells, Tim Weeks, and Lisa Joyce.

Needless to say, The "Universal Language" is well spoken at LHS.

Students and teachers found equally as much talent in LHS Art pupils, whose work was often exhibited in the display cases and the Library. Under the direction of a new and talented teacher Ms. Barbara Crawford, more students than ever learned various techniques and skills in Art 1, 2, and 3 classes. Among the topics studied were batik, weaving, silk screening, and many aspects of drawing and painting.

Fine

During Band class Freshman John Payne is distracted from music by something that appears to interest him a lot.

A meeting of the band members is a good time for Seniors John Blasser and Monty Potter to discuss future plans.

Reading the instructions for an Art project, Sophomore Rosa Mason considers several ideas that are possibilities.

The Chorus meets every day during 3rd period to practice for concerts such as this one performed over Christmas.

Arts attract many talented students

Business Dept. opens two companies

Work! Fun! Experience! These three words describe the efforts of both students and teachers in the Business Department this year. New and interesting equipment and office simulations were used to help develop knowledge and skills.

Stenography II and Clerk Typist II students found "real" experience and fun in Serendipity, Inc. and Lester Hill Corporation respectively;

Stenography II Seniors spent a week of classtime touring offices in town to observe equipment and procedures; Typing I students learned quickly and "effortlessly" on their new electric typewriters; and General Business students investigated various office careers and chose related orientation projects as well as learned about personal budgeting and finances, while some twenty Seniors found jobs in town.

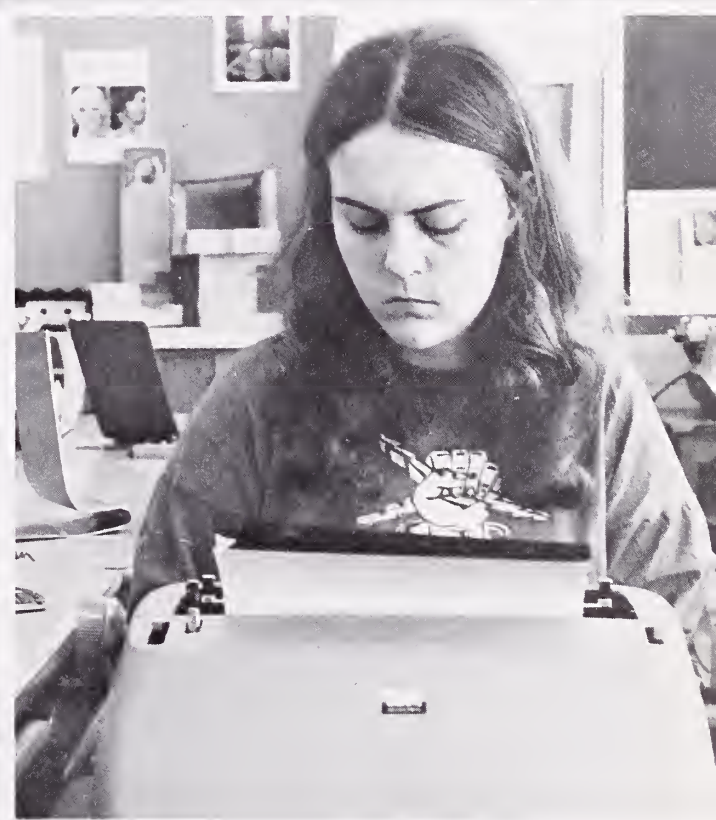

In hopes of a business-related job for her post high school career, Senior Debby Fitzgerald practices adding.

Paperwork is a big part of the business world as Junior Francine Payne discovers while working on her assignment.

A smile on the face of Junior Bonnie Painter shows that typing can be fun despite endless speed tests.

Business Department Senior Barbara Price ponders her next working assignment while waiting for the bell to ring.

Busily scurrying, Juniors Elaine Clark and Marcia Figgatt work to finish their typing assignments.

With a scowl, Junior Donna Rowsey pounds away at the ol' typewriter while wishing that the day was over.

Readin' and writin' emphasized

A broken fingernail is more important to Sophomore Betty Swisher than anything being taught in her English class.

Two of the three "R's" belong in the English Department — reading and (r)-writing. English classes 8-12 all emphasize reading, whether from learning basic fundamentals to analyzing Shakespearean dramas.

And this year, the acquisition of writing skills was sought by so many Seniors that two Advanced Composition classes were filled.

No more misplaced modifiers!! The Journalism class took on new meaning as it became the official producer of the Scarletter. An entire new format was used by the class to add variety to the paper.

Literature of different time periods was studied in English classes, and teachers worked with various aspects of poetry and grammar. In Senior English, "Big Brother" came along with the new face of Mr. Arthur Gumenik, who grew a Santa Claus beard for his students before Christmas.

The Freshmen were instructed by another new teacher, Mr. Robert Walker. English in its varied forms can be interesting, contrary to popular belief.

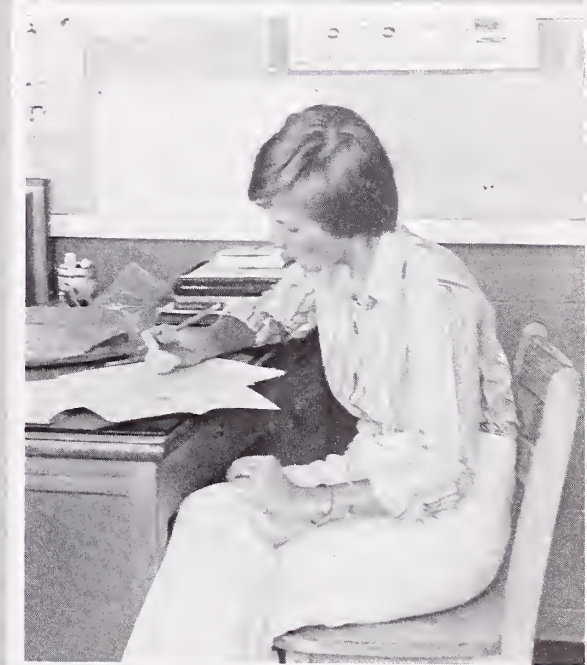

In Junior English, Mike Rodgers seems to be showing the class a new dance step but Steve Grist seems to care only about work.

When rain spoils their outdoor picnic, members of an Advanced Composition class just enjoy their food inside.

Stretched out on the floor, Eighth grader Mark Mays seems quite comfortable as he reads his English.

Working at the teachers' desk is quieter in 4th period Advanced Composition class Senior Virginia Ray finds.

"You won't take my picture" jokes Sophomore Jimmy McCoy as the photographer snaps it in the Journalism class.

Talking while sewing is a great way to pass the time as Freshman Crystal Armentrout finds.

Sewing a tricky stitch, Sophomore Sherry Hollis uses her patience and skill to finish a sleeve for a dress.

Along with her Home Ec classmates, Soph. Jane Sheldon enjoys an end-of-the-year party to celebrate school's ending.

Studying nutrition and diet is a large part of Home Ec so Junior Teresa Ayers reads up on the subject.

The material already cut out for her dress, Sophomore Becky Ayers seems hesitant to get started on the undertaking.

The refinishing of an old chair is the project of Sophomores Alisa Floyd and Susan McCullough.

Wander past one of the Home Ec rooms one day to see what you can see — you'll probably be surprised! You may find girls and guys talking about their recent "marriage", and all of the pros and cons of married life. This is one example of things that go on in Family Planning and Marriage courses. Students aren't just learning to cook the food any more — they're learning to use a budget and buy wisely. Many of the traditional units taught in Home Ec have been expanded on with fresh ideas. Some classes have divided themselves into groups and worked on projects together . . . "I'll teach you this, you teach me that." All of the homemakers seem to enjoy their projects — after all, making it your- self is really half the fun!

Students prepare for tomorrow today

Surveying, measuring, building — it's all a part of Industrial Arts, an area subject to increased attention over the past year. Here, not only males but also females have become involved in drafting as well as the actual making of various wood creations. Everything from candlesticks to a barn-shaped storage shed were the by-products of this year's enthusiasm and ingenuity. Students are realizing that their handiwork can pay off, as witnessed by the fabulous displays set up in the school and community — even in Tanglewood Mall Roanoke. Woodworking and drafting may not be everyone's thing, but for those with the knack, Industrial Arts offers a great experience.

In Shop class, Seniors Shan Mitchell and Palmer Deacon make and record measurements for a drawer.

Hammering a border on the drawer he is building, Sammy Smith carefully holds the nail in place.

Carefully reading the directions on the board, Junior Reggie Dixon works on his Mechanical Drawing assignment.

Working on a frame for a rifle, Jimmy Donald sands the wood as Stanley Sensabaugh looks on to gain some pointers.

With goggles to protect his eyes, Larry Hinkle shows Darrell VanNess the proper way to shave the wood.

Measuring the sides, Donald Smith carefully draws the line so he can get a good grade on his Mechanical Drawing project.

Industrial Arts teach creative talents

Inovative ideas make languages fun!

Painting murals on sheets is an excellent way for Barbara Carpenter, Leslie Adams, and Elise Sprunt to show Latin creativity.

Having trouble organizing her materials, Marilyn Shaner decides to just "close up shop" for the day in German class.

A real French cafe in Room 210? There is now, so French students take advantage of the pleasant atmosphere.

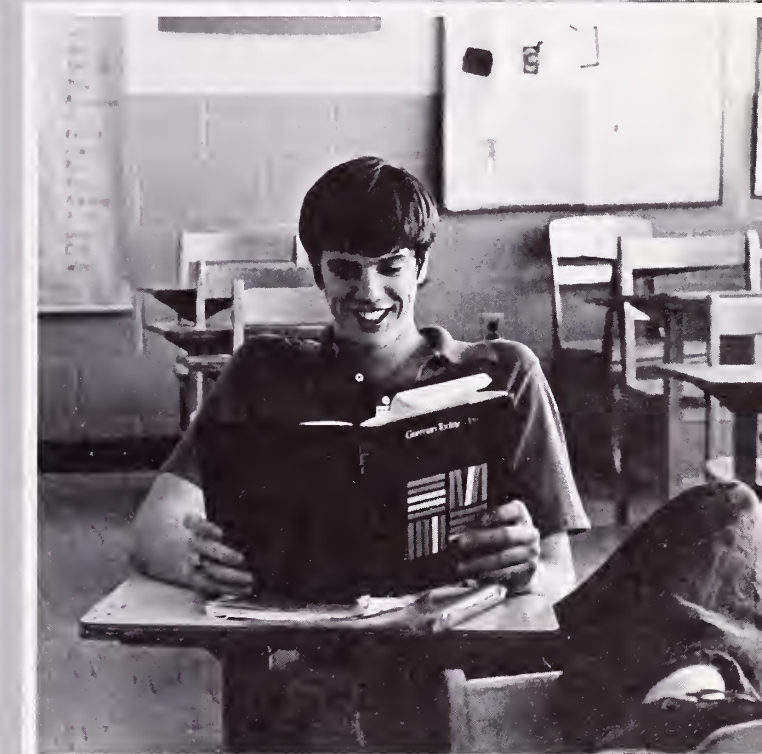

The Language Department saw two new faces this year. Ms. Drake became the new Latin teacher and brought new ideas. In April, Rome's birthday was celebrated in a festival held on a Saturday morning behind the school. Chariot races in the 20th century? Only at LHS!

In the French classes, there was another new teacher. Ms. Beard not only offered her students language expertise, but also ideas on how to change the appearance of the room. Some paint, French-style chairs and tables, and a canopy transformed the back of the room into a French café. German students were doubled up this year due to the larger number taking "Deutsch." Frau Dickens often helped her Herrs and Frauleins plan authentic German breakfasts and dinners in between correcting their umlauts.

In German class, Phillip Clark and David Smiley pose in front of the model house that the two of them built.

Preparing props for the celebration of Rome's birthday, Dennis Jarvis skillfully paints a column in Latin class.

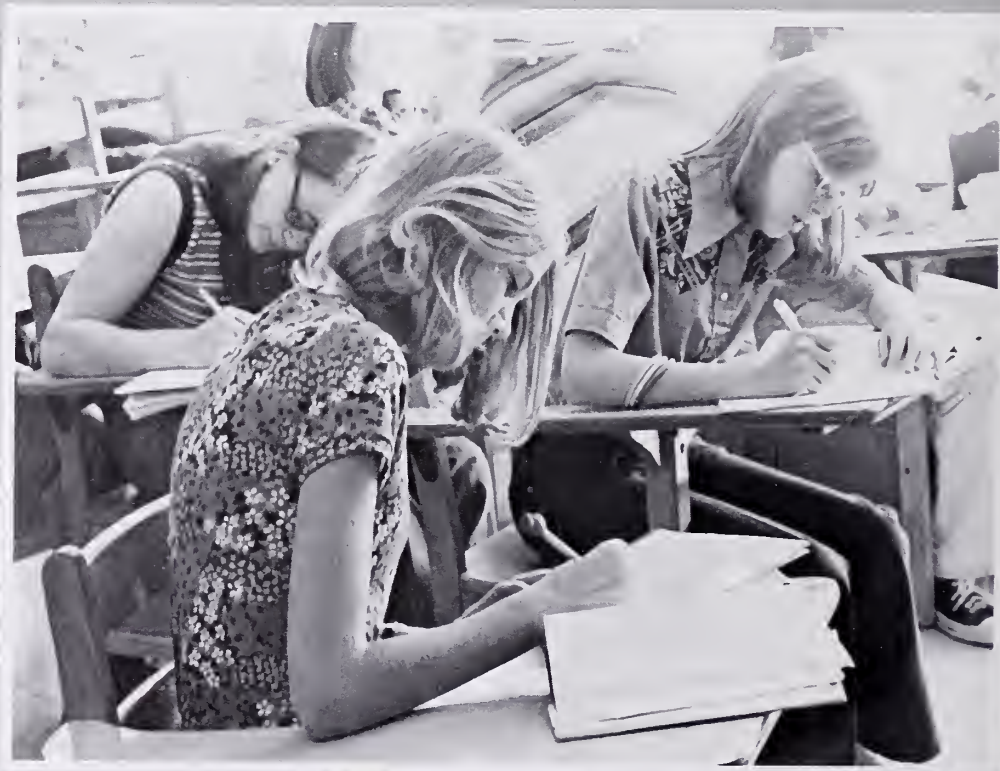

Taken in mid April, this picture captures Herr David Huffman in the rare act of opening his German book.

In Analysis class, Chris Mason seems to be interested in daydreaming while Richard Wilson prefers laughing at jokes.

Extra time in class to complete homework problems so there are no books to lug home is nice, as Pam Cox and Mollie Rorrer find.

From basic fundamentals of mathematics to complicated principles of trigonometry, students at LHS involved themselves in Math. Fifteen Seniors filled the largest Calculus class ever, while other Juniors and Seniors were combined in 2 Analysis classes. All the other courses were filled with students who were surrounded by various numbers, polygons, and theorems. In December, LHS sent three students to the fourth annual Radford College Mathematics Rally. The team of John Hodges, Anne Sauder, and Kathy Williams finished second out of 42 schools and 126 student participants. Ms. Minnix, who used to teach at LHS, returned to the Math Dept. this year. Mr. Lauck continued his beard-growing contest with Mr. Stark, who (by the way) is a professional at origami: the art of paper folding.

In Eighth Grade Math, Harry Wiley is introduced to Geometry and must learn the fine art of graph drawing.

Drawing circles with a compass, Senior Lisa McCown prepares to measure geometric distances that she needs to do her work.

As Tommy Thalman hides behind his book, Junior Trent Craney is distracted from his Geometry by the Crystal photographer.

Math encompasses numbers and theories

Students work to become physically fit

As PE teacher Mr. Lewis Straub observes, Eighth-grader Jeff Farrar concentrates while preparing to take a foul shot.

With the class watching, two Eighth grade girls get set to run the 50 yard dash for their Physical Fitness Tests.

Lifting weights is a great way to get a good grade and get in shape, so three eighth-graders practice for perfection.

It's not the daily calisthenics, the physical fitness tests or the one-half mile warm-up jogs that seem to bother phys. ed. students, but the frustrating volleyball games that remain the coaches' favorite assignment. "Whoever invented this dumb game anyway?" is a common phrase, "Hasn't anyone around here heard of tennis courts?" — yet the pound-swat of the volleyball games continues. Gym class isn't all complaints however; it's a chance for students to meet new friends while keeping themselves in tiptop (?) condition. Even if the boys do accuse the girls of better mats and vice versa with the girls, both sexes have managed to share not only the track and the great outdoors, but also the gym. Besides eighth, ninth and tenth grade P.E. can't be all bad — just look at the lousy condition of the juniors and seniors who don't participate in gym!! Keep at it coaches. One day you'll be appreciated.

During Physical Fitness tests, PE teacher Mike Brown records 60-yard dash timings while his Freshmen students watch.

Some Sophomore girls have a short social gathering before class begins and they have to do daily exercises.

Bond Biology. Coalter Chemistry. Hey, maybe there's a pattern here! Edwards Physics? Oh well, two out of three ain't bad! Students once again found the Sciences enjoyable fields of study. Everyone loved Mr. Coalter's exploding gas bubbles and experiments that never ever work. And of course, Mr. Bond's Biology remained the most — shall we say — illustrious class in school. His students even got to plan the school menus. Peas in jello??

The Junior faculty members, Mr. Anderson and Ms. Parker, stayed busy with the Science Club. A very active year (for the club, that is): regular football games, guest speakers, picnics, and trying out the water beds in the V.M.I. sleep research lab!

This year, a large number of Freshmen took Biology which was a traditional Sophomore course.

Also, many Seniors satisfied their lust of scientific knowledge by taking Physics or Advanced Biology.

In Physics class, Doug Washington and Phyllis Watt work with their group on an electric current experiment.

Biology students Lee Doyon, David Miller, Carol Ann Morehead, and Sharon Pearson all seem to be thinking different things.

Learning about Ectoplasms can be fun? These three science students don't seem to agree with the theory.

After studying his French in Biology class, Sophomore Sam Tucker decides to glance over his Science assignment.

The 6th period Advanced Biology class demonstrates what scientific minds they all have.

Patterns discovered in Science Dept.

The Social Studies Department spent the year enlightening students with knowledge of everything from the workings of our government to the shape of the world. Guest speakers enhanced many of the classes by adding personal viewpoints of diversified areas involving the social sciences.

Also, career speakers spoke to Government classes about various job and career opportunities available to high school and college students. Seniors served as jurists in mock trials put on by the W & L Law students. And speaking of mock, Seniors participated in the Mock Democratic Convention at W & L. In the Mock UN Debates at VMI, the Lexington delegation that represented Tanzania won the highest honors possible.

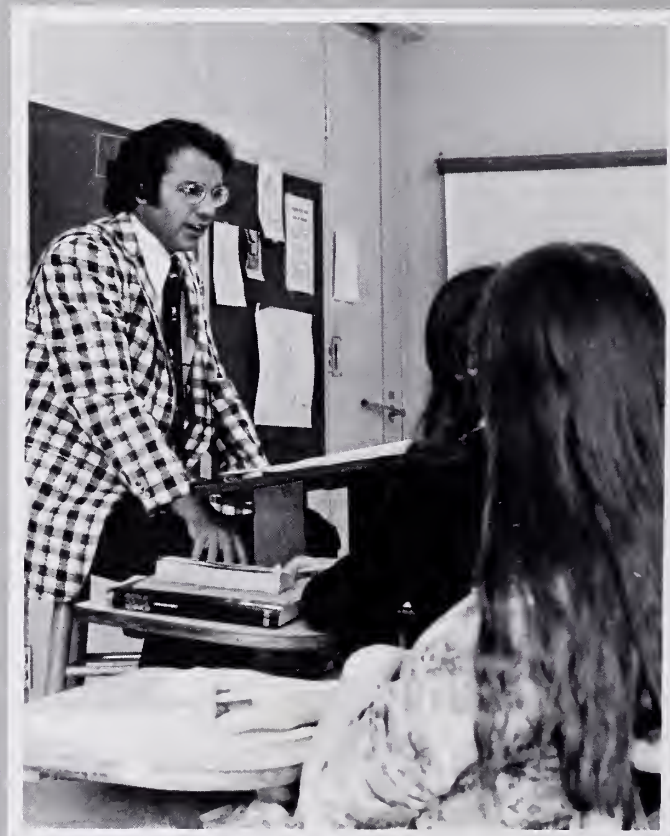

Seniors who had Ms. Hays for government were fortunate to have Mr. Craig Owens, a senior at W & L, student teach them for a 6 weeks. Social Studies — best dept. at LHS.

As Mr. Redden hands back a test, eighth-grader Delores Rhodenizer patiently awaits her paper to come.

In Government class, Vivian Nicely blows too big a bubble while Hazel Horne seems uninterested in Vivian's dilemma.

One of many guest speakers, Mr. John Doane, Lexington City Manager and husband of LHS's Ms. Lee Doane, speaks to Seniors about local government.

Government research projects take up a lot of time Verna Kimble discovers as she sorts her notes in Business class.

Taking care of 3rd period business, Ms. Sauder checks the roll as Junior Glen Daughtry reads the Daily Bulletin to his U.S. History class.

In government class, Senior Terri Purvis is apparently amused by something in her outside reading book All the President's Men.

Guest speakers enrich Social Sciences

The excitement of a Pep Rally is shown as members of the Sophomore and the Senior classes show the Hurricane spirit.

Freshman Doug Wright seems to be very full of energy after finishing his Shop assignment and cleaning up afterward.

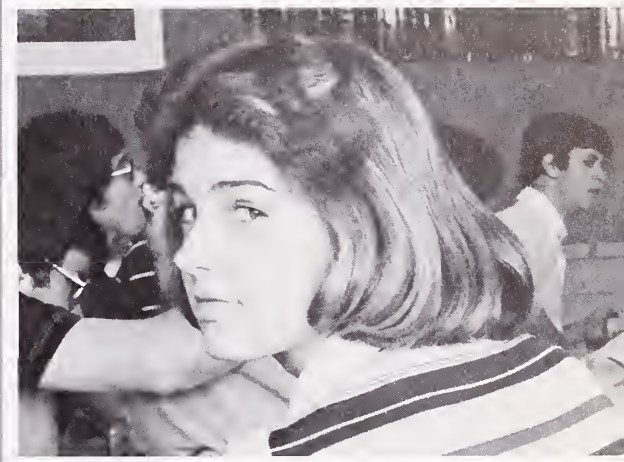

Eighth grade students find that lockless lockers save a lot of time and provide a chance to socialize with friends between the changing of classes.

Determination written on his face, Senior Timmy Weeks lets the ball go in a pitch that is surely a strike.

1976 — United we stood .

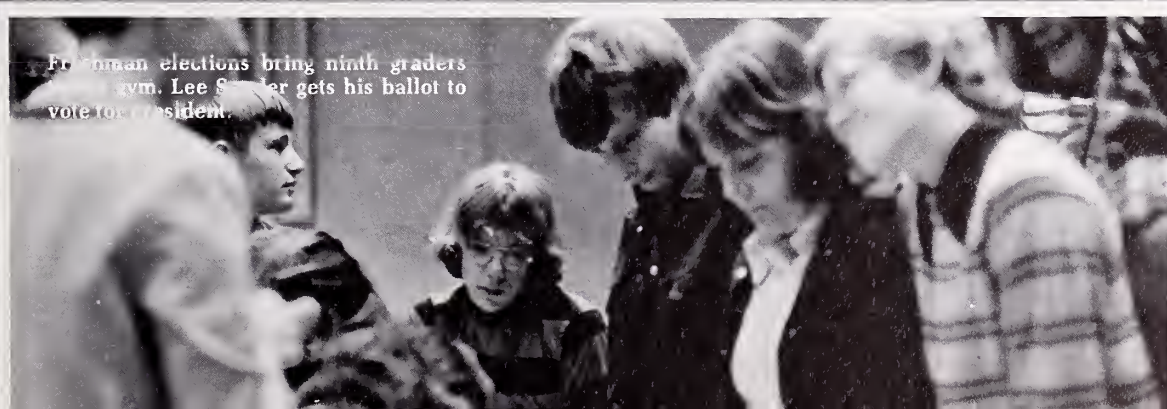

English doesn't seem to be the most urgent thing on the mind of Senior Beth King as her feelings are written all over her face.

Seniors Alexander Tucker, Kathy Knapp, Lisa Boley, Phyllis Watt, and Bill Paxton watch with glee as their fellow graduates receive their diplomas.

Lunch is apparently pleasing to eighth grader Randy Chittum as he finishes his carton of milk with a big smile.

United we existed together every day. 180 mornings we trod to school to hear Mr. T's morning announcements, then proceeded through our schedules. But each one of us gained so much more than a "book" education. As a student body composed of over 950 individuals we learned a great deal from each other. Each person in his own way contributed something simply because he was there. Hopefully when we look back we can find that we've left something of ourselves behind . . . something more than our fingerprints on the wall. To help you remember what made us such a unique group, you have this book. In it are the things, large and small, that have gone to make up LHS 1975-76. For some these are final memories, while for others only the beginning, but for all they will remain in our hearts forever.

Freshman elections bring ninth graders to the gym. Lee Sander gets his ballot to vote for president.

I would like to express my sincerest appreciation to the few people who worked to produce this yearbook.

Elaine Gansz Kathy Williams
 Virginia Ray Margaret Snyder

Very special thanks go to Mrs. Joan Whitesell, our advisor, who provided us with constant help and support, and to Tim Poindexter who supplied most of the photographs in this book.

I am grateful to you all.
